Plan Damage Action Against New York City

Town of Shandaken Residents, Who Sustained Damages to Properties During Recent Floods, Contemplate Action Against N. Y. C.

An action against the city of New York is contemplated by a number of residents of the town of Shandaken, who sustained damage to their properties during the recent flood conditions which existed along the Esopus creek. A meeting of property owners was held recently at Mt. Tremper when the matter was discussed and arrangements talked over for employing counsel to bring a test case to determine whether the city of New York is responsible for damage done property.

Many of the residents along the Esopus creek between the Ashokan reservoir and the point where the Glibbo tunnel enters the creek claim that the unusually high water was due to the water which was sent through the Shandaken tunnel and into the already flooded Esopus creek.

The city of New York when flood conditions began to make themselves apparent shut down the water from the Glibbo tunnel but the residents along the creek contend that the water was not shut off in time to prevent serious damage to their property.

Notice of a public meeting was given several days ago and the meeting was attended by a large number of people who suffered damages. Plans were talked over and it was decided to bring an action. Counsel was retained and those who suffered damages will contribute proportionately to the fund to bring an action in the supreme court.

USHERS' CLUB PRESENTED EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT.

The Ushers' Club, with the assistance of the young ladies of the Westminster Guild, presented one of their most successful "annual entertainments" in the chapel of the Rensselaer Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening, to a large and appreciative audience.

The first part of the program was an old fashioned minstrel show. The music was very catchy, the soloists fine and the chorus exceptionally good. Besides the solos by the endmen Alton Shadler and George Williams both rendered solos which were heartily enjoyed. The endmen were Thomas Rowland, William Siskler, William Metcalf and Fred Van Deusen, while the interlucators were Everett Schutt. Members of the chorus were: Misses Metcalf, Skelton, Staples, Beeres, Hutton, Phillips and Mrs. Peyer; Messrs. Peyer, Shadler, Spalt, B. Van Deusen, Scott, Dixon, Russell and Williams. Mary Phelps very ably accompanied at the piano.

The second part was arranged by Richard Obenaus, ably assisted by James Winter, who without question carried off the honors of the evening and to whom the Ushers' Club feel deeply grateful.

The first number of the second part was a farce entitled "Doctor Flum", which was a scream from start to finish. Richard Obenaus, acting the part of the doctor, James Winter the part of the ghost and Arthur Pennington, the darkey patient. Master George and Donald Kent rendered several recitations and were forced to respond to encores. George Williams, accompanied on the piano by Fred Spalt, rendered very acceptably a violin solo which was followed by a delightful piano solo by Fred Spalt. The last number on the well balanced program was a sketch by Richard Obenaus and James Winter which convulsed the audience.

The entire program from the opening chorus to the closing sketch was a big success and will long be remembered by those present.

HOPKINS "LOST WILL" PROVEN A FORGERY

San Francisco, Dec. 17 (AP).—The estate of Mark Hopkins, multi-millionaire railroad builder, which has accumulated into a fortune estimated at $300,000,000 since his death many years ago, remained today in the possession of a group of heirs headed by Samuel Hopkins after the disclosure that a "lost will" upon which alleged heirs had based a suit for redistribution of the estate, is a forgery.

The suit was thrown out of superior court here yesterday on motion of attorneys for the claimant, F. D. McCandless of San Jose, Calif. The attorneys, H. W. Rich and A. L. Hart, made short work of the case when they announced that after an investigation they had found the will to be spurious and asked that their names be withdrawn from the proceedings.

Wegley Charged With Murder. Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP).—An indictment charging murder in the first degree was returned against William Wegley of this city, by the Orange county grand jury today. Wegley is made a co-defendant with Mrs. Lora Wegley, awaiting trial for the alleged murder of her husband, Daniel P. Wegley, by poison. Wegley pleaded not guilty.

Arraign Sinclair And Fall Tuesday

District of Columbia Supreme Court Defers Arraignment of Sinclair and Fall on Conspiracy Charge Until Tuesday.

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP).—Arraignment of Harry F. Sinclair and Albert D. Fall on an oil conspiracy charge was postponed today by the District of Columbia Supreme court until next Tuesday.

Argument on Sinclair's motion to quash the indictment was put off until the same day after the presiding justice had found today's docket crowded with other cases having priority.

The announcement from the bench was made after Sinclair, whose lease of Teapot Dome started the senate oil inquiry, had waited for more than an hour in the court room. Fall remained at his hotel, awaiting a telephone call from his counsel, who mingled with the legal staff of Sinclair in the spectators' section of the court room.

The charge against Sinclair and Fall is similar to that of which Fall and Edward L. Doheny, lessee of the Elk Hills reserve, were exonerated by a jury yesterday after a four weeks' trial. In anticipation of a court ruling upholding the Fall-Sinclair indictment, government counsel are planning to ask at the arraignment Tuesday that the oil man and former interior secretary be brought to trial early in January.

Oysterman Dies on Land He Shunned

Patchogue, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP).—Old Capt. Gil Moger, 93 years old and blind for forty years, has died on the dry land he shunned, but his black swan will be burned at sea as he asked.

Capt. Moger was an oysterman all his adult life and was known to nearly every tar between Great South Bay and the Virginia Capes. He died here yesterday at the almshouse, where he was brought by force last spring when his 21 foot sloop caught fire in the Patchogue river. Firemen rescued the old seaman from the burning ship, but the next day he was found back in the charred cabin on his hands and knees, bawling it out.

"Lad," Capt. Moger said, salting his remarks with some full rigged "cussing" when they took him away, "when Gil Moger weighs anchor from this sea world, just row tow the Black Swan out beyond the inlet there and burn her. Burn her, do you hear? Off her soundings. Let me and her put off together."

But the captain will find his final resting place in Cedar Grove cemetery tomorrow, and the Black Swan shortly thereafter will make its last trip to sea.

British Army Cut One-Third

London, Dec. 17 (AP).—The fighting strength of the British army has been reduced by one-third since pre-war days.

Parliament was told by Lord Midleton before its adjournment that the present total, including regulars, army reserve, special reserve and territorials, was 115,500 men, a decrease of 254,500.

At the same time, he declared, the administrative staff of the war office had been doubled. In his opinion it was midsummer madness to clip the army to maintain the war office.

The Earl of Onslow, replying for the government, said the army would not be reduced below the strength required to meet the commitments undertaken by the government with the consent of parliament.

Seagull Payroll Over $2,500,000

Philadelphia, Dec. 17 (AP).—Salaries paid by the Seagull National exposition aggregated $2,500,000 exclusive of construction labor wages. This was revealed in figures made public today which showed that twenty exposition executives were paid $10,000 a year each and that at one time approximately 1,000 persons were carried on the payroll.

The publicity department was reported to have spent more than $500,000 to "sell" the exposition.

ROAD WORLD SPEED

$100,000 FOR BUILDINGS

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP).—A lump sum appropriation of $100,000 for public buildings construction throughout the country was proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Reed of New York, a Republican member of the public buildings committee. The amount would be in addition to the $100,000,000 provided for this purpose by congress last winter.

Aged Flounder Dies.

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—John Alvan Stewart, 104 years old, Wall Street broker and once assistant secretary of the United States treasury, died at his home here today. He was the same of death.

Cold Brook Case Going to Jury

Action of Nolle R. Van Wagner Against Carl Schentzen Growing Out of Auto Collision Will Be Concluded Today.

Testimony on the part of plaintiff in the action brought by Nolle R. Van Wagner against Carl Schentzen was concluded in supreme court Thursday afternoon and the defendant's case was taken up. Van Wagner seeks to recover damages for injuries sustained when his car and the Schentzen car collided at the Cold Brook road intersection with the Phoenicia-Kingston road.

Testimony of doctors who had examined Mr. Van Wagner was introduced by plaintiff tending to show the extent and the permanency of the injuries.

Bert Winne, who conducts a garage at Cold Brook and who arrived on the scene a few minutes after the accident was called. He described the location of the accident and how he found the car. Mr. Van Wagner stopped at his garage on the way to the doctor's and asked him to go to the scene. Later Mr. Winne in company with Mr. Van Wagner, his son and William Constantine went to the scene and looked over the scene and certain marks on the roadway were noted. Mr. Winne testified that marks 40 or 50 feet north of the intersection showed where a car at the right of the road had been shoved along, there were marks in the shoulder of the road which led up to where he found the car.

Ernest Gardner told how he had heard of the accident and had gone to the scene. He stopped at the Hermann place and saw Mr. Van Wagner on the porch. It was a few minutes after the accident happened. He inquired if there was anything he could do and offered to take the injured man to a doctor. On cross examination Mr. Gardner said Mr. Van Wagner seemed to be conscious and had told him to go down and look over the car and turn off the switch.

Mr. Van Wagner's son was called and told what he found some two hours after the accident when he was bringing his father back from Dr. Gross's office. They went to the scene and looked over the ground. Mr. Van Wagner was still in the car and was not taken home until after they had visited the scene. The car had been taken away. He told of the injuries sustained by his father and said his father since the accident had not done any work. When he attempted to he suffered dizzy spells and frequently collapsed and was compelled to go to bed at times. These spells had not been of recent date.

The defendant claims that the accident was unavoidable and that Mr. Van Wagner was at fault. The charge for Schentzen claims that he was driving about 20 or 25 miles an hour and that Mr. Van Wagner drove his car out into the road directly in front of his car and it was impossible to avoid the accident. That Mr. Van Wagner was badly injured the defendant does not deny but claims that it was due to his own negligence.

Some of the testimony taken on a former trial was read in evidence. The case will be concluded today and sent to the jury.

LLOYD-GEORGE NOW CONTROLS PARTY MACHINE

London, Dec. 17 (AP).—Acceptance of the income from Lloyd-George's electoral fund by the organizing committee of the Liberal party is taken to mean that the former premier has captured control of the party machine. There is much soreness among the party members, however, and no present sign of real harmony.

The committee voted acceptance, 19 to 14, the minority representing the strength of the adherents of Viscount Grey, who has been mentioned as head of the Asquith section of the party, leadership since the retirement of Lord Oxford and Asquith.

RAYMOND SLUG GUARDS.

Kansas City, Dec. 17 (AP).—Six bandits slugged a guard and robbed a bank messenger of $75,000 in cash on a downtown street corner here today while thousands of Christmas shoppers milled about the scene. Bandits escaped in a motor car.

The last was shot in cash $27,000 in $10 bills, $27,000 in $5 bills, $11,000 in $20, $11,000 in $1 and $500 in $2. Bank officials said the loss was covered by insurance.

Woodstock, Vt., Dec. 17 (AP).—John Winters today pleaded not guilty to indictments for murder and assault found against him yesterday by the Windham county grand jury. He was remanded to jail to await trial after January 31. Winters, a former convict, was charged with the murder of Miss Cecelia Gulliver by shooting at the scene on the north of her home in Woodport on November 7.

Quadruple Golden Wedding Party

Hilton, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP).—In this quiet little hamlet, eight persons today are figuring in one of the most unusual celebrations ever noted—a quadruple golden wedding celebration.

All their lives the eight have been close friends, never wandering far from the confines of the community, yet today their lives are removed from the commonplace.

The couples are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. James K. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mott, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cullis. Together, they represent 400 years of wedded life, and 571 years of age. The two Smith families are not related.

They were not all married on the same day, but far enough apart so that their anniversary parties, at which each family has entertained the others for years, made a steady round of parties from Thanksgiving to New Year's. Tonight, however, the whole town will turn from its last minute Christmas shopping to give them a regular party—a community event in the Hilton Baptist Church, which all have attended for many years.

KRESGE EMPLOYEES SATISFIED WITH CONDITIONS

Editor, The Freeman:

Would you kindly announce through the columns of your paper to the people of our city and community that the reason of the S. S. Kresge store being closed Thursday and Friday evenings is through no fault of the manager working the girls overtime as might have been surmised by many.

MEXICO ISSUES WARNING TO FOREIGN OIL COMPANIES

Mexico City, Dec. 17 (AP).—Warning that foreign oil companies not complying with the new oil and land law by December 31 will have "renewed their rights and will have no redress against the Mexican government," is given by the minister of industry, commerce and labor, Luis Morones, in a telegram to the oil men, made public today.

The telegram served as a denial of reports that the time limit for the companies to apply for confirmation of their titles would be extended. Senator Morones took occasion also to announce that virtually all foreign oil concerns had applied for concessions under the new law.

Closed Zone for Singers and Dogs

Street Cars Will Stop at Mill Street, 24 Policemen Will Maintain Order and Dogs Will Be Issued on Presentation of Ticket.

The Downtown Business Men's Association has made more definite plans in the conduct of the Christmas Song Festival to be held Saturday, December 18, and all precautions will be taken to maintain discipline without interfering with pleasure.

The police will rope the area between the Strand and Ferry street, in front of The Freeman building, for the convenience of the singers, who will enter the zone at the gateway that will be made at the corner on which the First National Bank is situated. The singers will face the bandstand and song leader. At the end of the sing the melody renderers will leave the roped-off section by the exit at Broadway and Ferry street. On the way out each one who participated in the program will be given a ticket for a hot dog.

The "sizzling weenies" will be handed out by a corps of waiters who will attend the special kitchens on Ferry street.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood has arranged for 24 policemen to direct traffic and handle the crowds that are expected to attend and take part in the singing of the old familiar Christmas carols and witness the inspiring spectacle of hundreds of children while they render the songs in chorus. The policemen will be able to prevent the disorder that occurred last Saturday when Santa arrived and will assist in seeing that some of the eager kiddies do not receive more than their share while others are overlooked.

No motor traffic will be permitted to enter the zone of the festival and arrangements have been completed with Mr. Tebow of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad to have the trolleys stop at Mill street and not proceed any farther down Broadway. Cars on the lower end of the line, that is the ones that run from Ponckhockie to the Rhinebeck Ferry, will run as far as the Cornell building on Saturday.

The Downtown Business Men's Association will also make arrangements to contribute over 175 Christmas trees to the families who are not in financial condition to purchase them and persons wishing to receive a tree from the organization may visit the stores which have the trees placed on the sidewalks for decorations and apply for one. One tree only will be given to a family.

The First National Bank will be open for the convenience of those people who wish to join the Christmas Club. This will be a splendid opportunity for those wishing to place their savings in the club conducted by the bank for while they are listening to the music by Malsenholder's Citizens' Band and the singing of the children, they can make arrangements with the officials at the bank for a Christmas Club account and thus, as it were, "kill two birds with one stone."

The Christmas Song Festival instituted by the Downtown Business Men's Association is reviving the good old custom of singing the Christmas carols at this season of the year. Many of the prominent citizens heartily approve of the action taken by the merchants and it is hoped that no boy or girl will absent themselves from the festivities and miss the chance of seeing old Kris Kringle, and singing the merry tunes to the music of Malsenholder's Citizens' Band.

Prof. Webster III. George A. Webster, director of music in the public schools, is confined to his home with an attack of grip, and will be unable to lead the community singing downtown Saturday afternoon as planned, but a competent song leader will be found and be on hand to lead.

This will be the annual meeting for the Auxiliary at which time the yearly reports will be read, and nomination and election of officers. After the business sessions have ended, refreshments will be served.

Holy Name Rally At St. Mary's

Judge W. D. Cunningham, the Very Rev. Dean J. B. Scully and the Rev. E. A. FitzPatrick Will Speak—Solemn Benediction To Be Sung in Church.

The Holy Name Societies of all the Roman Catholic churches in Kingston and Ulster county will meet in St. Mary's School Hall on Sunday, December 19, at 3 o'clock. The meeting is for the purpose of bringing the members of the organization, within the county of Ulster, into closer contact with one another. Judge William D. Cunningham will address the meeting in the school hall on "The Holy Name Man as a Citizen." The Very Rev. Joseph B. Scully, pastor of St. Mary's Church, and dean of the district, and the Rev. Francis X. FitzPatrick, spiritual director of St. Mary's Holy Name Society and regional director of all the Holy Name Societies in Ulster county, will also speak. After the rally in the school hall the men will march to the church in a body and attend services.

A large assemblage is expected to be in attendance when the meeting is called as invitations have been sent out to the various societies existing in the county. Other prominent men from communities other than those in Ulster are also expected to be at the rally and everyone who attends is promised something worth while.

The church services will consist of the Rosary, Litany of the Holy Name, and solemn benediction which will be sung by St. Mary's Holy Name choir, and the recitation of the Holy Name pledge.

Kieffer's Auto Taken in Error

While attending a meeting on Wall street Thursday evening Frank W. Kieffer of No. 60 Lafayette avenue, parked his 1927 model Buick coupe and later in the evening when he went after his car it was to find it missing. He immediately notified the police department and a general alarm was sent out.

Later in the night the police found another 1927 model Buick coupe parked on Wall street and removed it to the city hall. On the door it bore the initials "M. L. D." and this morning it was ascertained that the license plates had been issued to Mary L. Dolan of Tannersville.

This morning Kenneth Ennist, foreman at the McGrath Buick salesrooms, called at police headquarters and stated that he had taken Kieffer's coupe by mistake. It was parked two cars ahead of the other Buick. Mr. Ennist stated that the Kieffer car was at the McGrath garage and that Mr. Kieffer had been notified.

Mr. Ennist also took charge of the Dolan coupe and removed it to the McGrath salesrooms.

Swept to Death Over Genesee

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP).—An unidentified man was swept to his death over the upper falls of the Genesee river here today after he had leaped into the icy stream from the Central avenue bridge. Three passersby told authorities they saw the man, who was about 45 and well dressed, stop suddenly in his walk across the bridge, remove his overcoat, climb over the concrete rail, smilingly wave to them and drop to the water. They said he was swept rapidly down stream and over the falls.

The overcoat yielded no clues to his identity. The man was described as being about five feet eight inches tall and as wearing a blue suit. He had a small moustache and was bald.

Britain Friendly To Cantonese

Shanghai, Dec. 17 (AP).—That Great Britain is making gestures to the Cantonese which are interpreted as being of friendly nature is indicated in dispatches received here today from Hankow which say Miles Lampton, new British ambassador in China, and Eugene Chen, Chinese minister of the southern government, have been conferring.

Although an official statement has been given out, it is understood that a considerable number of questions have been discussed by the diplomats and that many misunderstandings have been smoothed out. This is regarded as the means of continuing progress toward a diplomatic understanding. It is toward a solution of all the complicated problems involved in the question of recognition of the Cantonese government, then at Hankow toward a better position for each of the representatives regarding their stand in the matter.

Held For Grand Jury.

Carl R. Helman, aged 27, was brought to the Ulster county jail from Marlborough, Thursday, having been committed by Judge Edward Martin to await the action of the grand jury for abandonment of his children and failure to provide for their support.

German Cabinet Resigns; Defeated In the Reichstag

Government of Chancellor Marx Beaten in Reichstag 249 to 171—Outstanding Events During the Marx Ministry.

Berlin, Dec. 17 (AP).—The government of Chancellor Marx today resigned after being defeated in the Reichstag 249 to 171, on a vote of non confidence.

The cabinet, which was automatically ousted by the adverse vote, will tender its formal resignation to President Von Hindenburg tonight. It is expected that he will ask Chancellor Marx and his ministers to carry on temporarily until after the new year.

The Reichstag, after the vote, adjourned until January 19.

Events During Ministry.

Outstanding events during the Marx ministry included Germany's entrance into the League of Nations and the general development of an approach between France and Germany, particularly through the conversations of Foreign Minister Briand of France and the German foreign minister, Dr. Stresemann. Only recently Dr. Stresemann obtained an agreement at a meeting of foreign ministers in Geneva to withdraw inter-allied control of German armaments on January 31 and to substitute league supervision by investigation whenever they should be considered necessary.

Another outstanding event was the referendum last June on the question of the expropriation of the property of the former ruling houses of Germany. This resulted in defeat for the proposal. Later the problem was settled by a compromise agreement with the agents of the former Kaiser and of the other ex-ruling houses.

Charges that monarchists have been secretly at work within the Reichswahr and have been illegally engaged in activities threatening the safety of the Republic have been frequent in the past few years.

One of the most important recent scandals in this connection was the participation of young Prince William, eldest son of the former crown prince, in Reichswahr maneuvers. This led to a great outcry in the republican and radical press and an investigation was held which resulted in the resignation of Major-General Von Seeckt as commander-in-chief of the Reichswahr.

TIME-HONORED CUSTOM LIMITS SWOOPE'S TENURE

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP).—A time-honored custom will limit the tenure of Representative Swoope of Pennsylvania, as chairman of the house pensions committee, to which post he has been elected by his Republican colleagues.

As far back as the memory of the oldest Pennsylvania house member runs, the representative from the Twenty-third Pennsylvania congressional district has served for a period of two terms only. Mr. Swoope, when campaigning four years ago, pledged himself to preserve this tradition. His four years in congress ends March 4.

How this custom was established is not known by members here, but it has been observed for many years.

KING FERDINAND WILL BE TREATED AT PARIS

Bucharest, Dec. 17 (AP).—It has been decided to take King Ferdinand to Paris for treatment at a radium sanatorium. He has been gaining in strength daily since his recent operations and is expected to be in condition soon to make the trip.

The king has been variously reported as suffering from an intestinal ailment and cancer. Radium is commonly used in cancer cases.

Queen Marie made her first public appearance since her return from America by attending the opening of the annual fair of the Prince Mircea Society yesterday. She bought a few gifts for friends in the United States, but remarked that the parcels might not arrive before New Year's.

FOOTBALL ONLY PAYING SPORT AT PRINCETON

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 17 (AP).—Football, with a return of $150,000, was the only sport at Princeton that paid its own way in 1925-26 season.

In addition, the receipts from football paid the general expenses and the deficits of all other athletic sports at the school, but failed by $127,194.94 to meet the expense of maintaining Palmer Memorial Stadium, the report of the Athletic Association showed.

Father Doran Dies.

Elmira, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP).—Rev. John R. Doran, for ten years assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church here, died this morning at the Clifton Springs sanatorium. Father Doran suffered a paralytic seizure about a year and a half ago, and had been an invalid since that time.

estant Episcopal bishop of New York.
Her partner is Capt. Analdo Marson,

The commissioner ordered Captain Marson held under $5,000 bonds and released Mrs. Burch on her own recognizance, subject to government call.

The arrest, according to stories the pair told, followed complaint to the federal authorities in New York by Mrs. Burch's husband, who lives at Hastings-on-Hudson, and who implored his wife not to leave her home and children at the time she left with the Italian captain.

Captain Marson is married to the mother of the husband with whose wife he eloped. Mrs. Grace Burch Walkup Marson of Yonkers, N. Y.

According to his story to the commissioner he fell in love with his step-son's wife two years ago. Captain Marson gave his age as thirty-eight and that of Mrs. Burch as twenty-seven. Her maiden name was Keyes.
Both her family and that of her husband are recorded in the social register.

Capt. Analdo Marson and Mrs. Isabel Walkup Burch disappeared at the same time from New York on October 2 last. Since that time an exhaustive search was made by relatives of the pair.

Captain Marson, who was the stepfather of Mrs. Burch's husband, had been in friendly terms with the family, but previous to their disappearance there was no indication of scandal. When they dropped from sight
they left no note of explanation.

Left Invalid Son.
Mrs. Burch left behind an invalid son, aged five, and a baby girl, nine months old.

The troubles of the Burches are of long standing. Mrs. Marson had married Mr. Walkup at an early age, but marital troubles arose after a few years and she won a divorce and custody of her son, Lyndon Walkup, who then adopted the name of his grandfather.

Mrs. Walkup took up her abode work in the course of which she made a trip to Scotland in 1922, when she met Captain Marson. He was a gallant Italian, some years younger than she.
When she returned to America he followed her. They were quietly married in Connecticut. The wedding proved a blow to the bishop, who was saddened by the remarriage of his daughter after she had obtained a divorce. The bishop died in 1923 without ever giving formal expression to his feelings concerning his daughter's second match.

Lyndon Walkup Burch had been married for several years to the beautiful Isabel Keyes and was leading a life of what appeared to be bliss even after his mother's second matrimonial venture. There was no discussion between the two families until Captain Marson and Mrs. Burch disappeared.

Father, 80, Sees Son, 80.

First Time Outside Jail
Falseness, filly—father and son, aged ninety and fifty respectively, who had never seen each other, have met for the first time. The meeting was coincident with their release from prison.

Fifty years ago, a peasant from the interior of Sicily was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder. He was told that on the same day his wife had given birth to a son.

When the convict's son was twenty,
he learned that his father had been convicted on the false testimony of two witnesses. These the son promptly waylaid and shot. For this crime
the son was sentenced to 30 years' penal servitude. On the day of the son's release the father received a pardon and for the first time father and son met and embraced.

Law Bars Repayment
of Loans by Official

Boston.—A town treasurer who paid town bills out of his own pocket cannot legally be repaid by the municipality, state authorities ruled. In consequence A. N. Gurney, eighty-year-old retired treasurer of Plainfield, may not recover $5,100 which he advanced while in office.

Theodore N. Waddell, director of accounts in the state department of corporations and taxation, announced his ruling in the Plainfield case. But he coupled with the announcement the statement that he would not take an active stand against repayment to "the man who made a good fellow of himself and dipped into his own pocket to pay town bills." The town, he said, would be allowed to "work out its salvation."

Aging Army Officers
Seek to Better Fate

Washington.—Escape by the army from approaching prospects of gray-bearded captains and age-worn majors is planned in a promotion study just completed by a special War department committee and approved by the general staff. It will be transmitted to congress in the form of a legislative recommendation.

Congress called for a report on the army promotion situation at the last session, and officers in the lower grades hope that the next session will clear the way for them to step up a grade
or two before they are retired on account of age.

Secretary Davis is studying the proposal and went over it with Representative W. Frank
James of Michigan, acting chairman of the house military committee.

Supple Velvet Is Popular Material

Dainty Flower Designs Are Favored by Paris; Metal for Decorations.

Perhaps the most striking detail of the Ducharme fall fabric collection is the wonderful quality of the chiffon velvets, which might pass through a wedding ring with the greatest ease. Some of these, notes a Paris fashion writer in the Louisville Courier-Journal, are made in a small check that is destined to be immensely popular during the winter.

Another novelty that arouses much admiration is a chiffon with a wide velvet border. Sometimes the velvet is plain and sometimes embossed.

Velvet embossed on rolls to a small flower design is yet another favorite. This embossed velvet is even made for lingerie and negligees in the palest colors, such as pink, coral blue and yellow.

Quite remarkable is a lame crepe that is printed with a flower design after it has been woven with gold. Another beautiful novelty is lame crepe de chine with scattered flowers and butterflies in gold and silver on lovely pastel colors.

There is a satin broche, metal flecked, with tiny stars of silver and gold. A whole series of lames and extraordinarily supple velvets are made in small flower designs that are adaptable to afternoon or evening gowns. Then there is a series just the opposite, with large scattered designs that are repeated each yard in a wide panel.

One of the most beautiful of these is a pattern of butterflies and bull-rushes on a ground of pale crepe de chine.

chine. The design is so beautifully woven in gold and silver that it actually has the appearance of hand embroidery.

Metal butterflies on georgette crepe show richness brought out in a delicate fabric. A new crepe hindon that resembles crepe remain is patterned with great golden roses scattered over it. Two-color effects are introduced in a crepe that is also bordered with lame design.

A metal gauze that is almost uncrushable, so fine and supple is its texture, is called mousse d'or, for it has the consistency of foam. Fanne printed with bright colored flowers is an attractive novelty of great richness. It is also made in gray on a bright-colored ground. A marvel of textile art is the crepe that is woven with the metal design in relief and some of it with a half-relief effect.

Nearly every color is seen. Vert is lovely, and so are figure and cendre de roses. The new pastel tints are warmer than those worn during the summer, and there is no hint of gray in them.

Fancy Shoulder Pins Important Accessory

Fancy shoulder pins are becoming an increasingly necessary article of jewelry, either to hold a bow in place, a small bouquet or single flower, or just to interrupt an otherwise plain line. Naturally there must be variety in any selection of such pins, the favored type at present being the foliate style, somewhat resembling a hedge or medallion. A studded cross bar, either of rhinestones or in a combination of other stones, forms the main part and from it hangs either a lattice of metal studded with stones or single strands of metal. Some of these strands are flexible, others rigid, making possible a wide choice of selection. The good combinations consist mostly of rhinestones combined with either sapphires, emeralds, topazes or amethysts.

Square Scarfs

Nothing is smarter at the moment than large square silk scarfs for wear with the tailored costume. These large rectangles of silk are worked in geometric designs and in startling colors and their size and flexibility make them responsive to a dozen modes of draping.

CHEESE DISHES

Cheese, one of our most valuable protein foods, is almost without waste and may still be used when dry in various dishes. Cheese naturally suggests itself as a substitute for meat, since it is rich in the same kind of nutrients which meat supplies, with no waste compared to that of meat.

Stuffed Potatoes With Cheese.—Split hot baked potatoes lengthwise and remove the contents without breaking the skins. Mash the potato, season with hot milk, butter and beat until light. Refill the skins, piling in lightly without smoothing, sprinkle with grated cheese and place in a hot oven long enough to melt the cheese, then serve at once.

Hot Cheese Sandwiches.—Spread bread with butter and a very thin slice of cheese that fits the sandwich. Lay the prepared sandwiches in a hot frying pan that has been well-greased with butter, toast until brown on both sides and serve piping hot, with a lettuce salad.

Pottery Potatoes.—Cook one quart of diced potato cubes with a small minced onion until the potatoes are nearly tender, then add a teaspoonful of salt, one-half of a can of minced pineapples and cook until the potatoes are done. Drain and put into a baking dish. Make a sauce of two tablespoons of butter and flour, one teaspoonful of salt, and a pint of milk, then add one-half pound of grated cheese. Pour this over the potatoes and bake until a golden brown.

Rice Baked With Cheese.—Cook a cupful of rice in a large quantity of water, adding a teaspoonful of salt. When tender drain and cover the bottom of a buttered dish with a layer of the rice, sprinkle with grated cheese, cayenne pepper, and add milk to half-fill the dish; cover with crumbs and bake until the milk is absorbed and the crumbs brown.

Charleston Mutton.—Beat together one cupful of sugar and a tablespoonful of butter. Add two eggs, beaten light, a pinch of salt, a grating of nutmeg and one cupful of milk. Mix two cupfuls of flour with three teaspoonsful of baking powder. Bake in a muffin pan or in a shallow baking pan.

Venerable Locomotive

One of the world's oldest locomotives, long famous in England as the Hotten colliery locomotive, has come to rest at last in a railway museum in York, after a trip of 100 years of exhibition. This veteran, in many respects resembling the No. 11's first passenger engine, locomotive No. 1, was built in 1822, rebuilt in 1857 and again in 1882.

Creatures of the Wild

Apart from a few insects, no creature of the wild does any more work than is necessary to feed itself and its family. But appetites vary, and while an animal like the mole cannot go without food for more than three or four hours, and will starve to death in a single night, others, such as the python, feed but once in six or eight weeks.

HAVE COURAGE.

The agricultural industry has had many problems to meet. But so has every other one of our basic industries, such as mining, oil, timber, etc. Taken as a whole, neither of the four industries mentioned is making a return on its investment which would satisfy a banker, manufacturer or merchant if he was earning a like amount.

The oil industry has gone quietly about bettering its condition by every efficiency method it can devise. The timber industry is starting in right from the growing of the tree, to place itself on a permanent and substantial basis in the future. The mining industry, by every method known to chemistry and engineering, is reducing its cost of production as the most permanent method of increasing its profits.

Probably no branch of agriculture has had more handicaps to contend with since the war ended, than have the silver producers. Not only has silver been low in price since the war, but it now faces a crisis, due to the fact that India, the world's greatest user of silver, has been considering changing its monetary system from silver to gold, and dumping its silver on the market to buy gold.

Instead of lying down in the face of such a prospective calamity, Western miners are redoubling their efforts to find new ways to use silver, and thus maintain production and payrolls in their mines. As the United States produced about one-fourth of the world's silver in 1925, the problem of maintaining our silver mining, just as the problem of maintaining our timber resources, our oil production and our agricultural pursuits, becomes one of national interest and importance.

UTILITY REGULATION.

The idea is constantly being stressed that the greatest function of state regulation of public utilities is to do away with unnecessary duplication of services. Eliminating waste has resulted from state regulation which reduces and prevents useless competition between water lines, electric, steam and motor services. Competition that eventuates in good public service is always desirable—destructive competition that eventuates in ruin to investments is never allowable.

Some of the leading railroad systems of the East are making use of electric, truck and bus lines for profitable operation of extensions and feeders for larger systems, and asking protection for traffic they have built up by years of service and investment and expenditure of vast sums of money. To any fair-minded American business man, there can be nothing wrong in state regulation with these objects in view, and existing transportation systems have a right to be protected against destructive and wasteful competition in any form.

Toys Aid Formation of Child's Character

A toy! That's what we think of as soon as we plan to give a present to a child. Because all children love toys. To many people the mere pleasure in reason enough for giving whatever the child desires most without any further thought in the matter—unless it is, of course, the expense.

Yet these unconsidered gifts are numerous among those who find the greatest fault with the young people of today because they are extravagant and wasteful, because they have no resources for entertainment within themselves. They little realize that what they deprive is the present generation of young people had its beginning in wrong training during the first years of their children's lives. Toys have a direct bearing not only upon young people's amusements, but upon the development of their character as well.

The first consideration, of course, in selecting playthings is the question of pleasure for the child. But what sort of pleasure—transitory, overindulgent or permanent contribution to his interests and resources?—Children, The Magazine for Parents.

What good is a strong body—when you have a weak head?

lation accommodated by repeating each show from two to six times a day.

A NEW WORD—ARTHRITIS.

A word has crept into our everyday language that is displacing another word entirely. The new word is arthritis, and the old word is rheumatism.

Arthritis simply means the inflammation of a joint, and arthritis is spoken of as an inflammation of some particular part of the joint. So important are these joint conditions considered now that Cornell Medical College has what is called an Arthritis Clinic, and they are endeavoring to simplify the causes, and thus the names, of the inflammations of different parts of the joint.

In six hundred cases they found that four hundred were due to an inflammation of the lining of the joint; that is the lining that makes the joint to keep the joint lubricated. The other two hundred were due to an inflammation of the surface of the cartilages that cover the end of each bone forming the joint.

The first type was usually found in young people or people up to middle age, whereas the other type was found in middle aged and older people.

That was a real start in clearing matters up.

Now what about the causes? In the first type or young folks type, 61 per cent were due to infection from tonsils, and 32 per cent to infection from teeth. Think of that, 94 per cent of those cases due to tonsils and teeth. This is an answer to our humorists who tell us that "it is easy to be a physician, all you have to do is to say 'Ahem, it is from teeth.'"

The second type, in older people, was found to be due in most cases to natural changes that come with advancing years.

The treatment of the young type of arthritis is first to remove any infection in teeth, tonsils, gall bladder or elsewhere, and then to apply heat, joint to help the circulation and thus carry away waste products.

In the second or older type all that can be done is to have the patient keep "moving."

A little exercise, and not to much food, are the points to remember.

Today's Story in New York History

Important Early Fires in New York City and State, the Largest Occurred December 17, 1835.

Modern history affords but few instances of more awful desolation by fire, than that which so suddenly visited the city of New York, on December 17, 1835. Indeed, there are not many examples of any calamities affecting property and business interests showing greater destruction or involving consequences more distressing.

The fire broke out on the night of the 16th and raged all the next day and through last night. In its course along Wall Street, the line of the East River, and returning to William and Wall Streets, it embraced a large irregular triangle of ground, an area of thirteen acres, covered by 694 houses and stores, with property valued at eighteen millions of dollars.

During the earliest Dutch regime the roofs were of thatch and bark, and exposed to the summer sun, involving a disaster which took place in 1627, when a general conflagration almost wiped out the infant city.

The next great fire occurred just at the time the British anticipated snug winter quarters in New York, when, at a little past midnight, September 21, 1776, a fire broke out in a low drinking place and brothel, near Whitehall slip. The wind was brisk from the southwest, and the flames spread rapidly, unchecked, for there were few inhabitants in the city.

Every building between Whitehall and Broad Street up to Beaver Street was consumed, when the wind veered to the southeast and drove the flames toward Broadway, crossed that thoroughfare and swept all the buildings on each side as far as Exchange Street, destroying Trinity Church. Every building westward toward the Hudson perished.

The Tories and British writers of the day charged the destruction of the city to Whig incendiaries. Some of these citizens who came out of the gloom to save their property were murdered by British bayonets or cast into the flames. There were 492 houses, or nearly one-fourth of the city burned.

A second such catastrophe occurred during the British occupancy August 7, 1778, when 300 houses were consumed in a fire which broke out in Cruger's Wharf.

As each century has had its great fire, the third and largest, occurred December 17, 1835.

New York was again to suffer serious loss by fire, for July 19, 1845, 200 buildings were burned with a loss of seven and a half millions. This fire would have been brought under control but for the explosion of a large quantity of saltpeter. The force of this explosion was sufficient to topple over several buildings, killing a number of firemen, and temporarily putting the fire service out of commission. There were 345 buildings destroyed valued at seven and one-half millions of dollars.

On October 5, 1853 occurred the burning of the Crystal Palace, while occupied by the fair of the American Institute. The building and contents represented a loss of quite three millions of dollars, but fortunately the 2,000 persons who were in the building at the time escaped injury.

It is a matter of interest to note the early important fires in New York State. The first occurred in Albany in 1797, when 97 houses were consumed in the flames and the town almost wiped out. The same place was again visited by a most destructive fire August 17, 1848, when the commercial center of the city and along the river and many boats were burned.

On June 20, 1820, nearly $400,000 worth of property was burned in Troy, and on August 25, 1854 the flames swept away more than one million dollars worth of buildings in the business section of that thrifty city.

One hundred and thirty buildings in Watford were burned July 11, 1841; the business section of Watertown was burned in 1849; and on September 7, of the same year 75 dwellings in Oswego were burned in the worst fire to ever visit that place. On May 26, 1857, Brasher Center was devastated and laid waste.

The most terrible conflagration in and about New York was the tragic burning of the steamboat "General Sherman" on the East River June 15, 1894, when nearly one thousand excursionists were consumed in the flames or drowned in attempted escape by jumping into the water.

Abundant Proof That Colonials Lived Well

Were William Penn to come back to his province few changes would impress him more than the complete alteration that has taken place in the hours for meals and what is consumed at them.

My lord proprietor ate his heavy meal at noon, and a heavy meal it was. Little or nothing was eaten before that sacred hour, though in those "good old days" many began the day with a drink of some very strong beverage. They would never guess the other "breakfast food." Reddish. They procured appetite and helped digestion.

By noon the table was set with huff and goose; forks were very rarely used then. Meats of all kinds comprised most of the food. There seems to have been very few vegetables, and we must remember there were no cold storage facilities of any kind.

Why Penn's father did not die of scurvy or liver trouble has puzzled many historians. On January 6, 1682, he gave a dinner at which, in addition to a "collie of beef and other good cheer," they had "15 mince pies in a dish."—From the Corn Exchange.

Son's Death Summons

The "rolling of the sea" is an old English term for a rough-weather. When this occurs on a sun night, the sound is sometimes heard for miles around. Sublimity of the sound is noted on it as a summons to death. Thompson refers to this phenomenon again in "Cresting the Bar"—"And one clear call for me."

The Ulster plantation was the colonization of a large part of Ulster, Ireland, by English and Scottish settlers, 1609-11. The troubles of the early seventeenth century resulted in the forfeiture of a large part of Ulster to the crown. In 1608 a commission was appointed to determine what to do with the land. It was proposed to colonize the whole district with English and Scottish settlers, and to divide the land into large estates, each to be given to a nobleman or soldier, and each large proprietor was to be bound to settle on his estate and to be bound to colonize the land to Irishmen.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

Mary Graham Bonner

THE POWER HOUSE

Along with the stories of animals and of the country many readers of Daddy's Evening Fairy Tales have asked for some stories about city wonders as well as country wonders and about us.

So that from time to time there will be stories or adventures had by a boy named Douglas and a girl named Dorothy together with their Uncle John. Uncle John was planning for them as once.

Dorothy remembered the little girl who had gone to the city and who had told her about her first evening there which had been a disappointment.

The very first evening she had thought that at least she would see some city lights but instead, after supper, she had been shown her room and had been told:

"Now you can go to bed and have a good night's rest. Then in the morning you'll feel all fresh for going out." And the little girl had not rested. She had cried that upon her very first evening she should be sitting in a room with nothing but four walls to look upon.

Yes, Uncle John was very different. He was an adventurer, too. He knew that they had rested before they had come to the city. And anyway it wasn't the way to start off a city visit by a good sleep.

When they had ridden back in the subway from the train and had gone up from the subway station to the street, they began to walk over to the power house.

The children wondered why they were going so far away from the subway itself if this was the power house for the subway.

"We shall see how those cars in the subway go," Uncle John was saying. "But," Dorothy asked, "I do not understand why it is we're going so far away from the subway. "How can they put the power house so far away? I don't understand at all."

"Now You Can Go to Bed."

"We shall see all that—and have it explained to us," said Uncle John. "For I have a permit and we can have a rare treat."

They walked so quickly that they soon arrived at the big gray building. As Uncle John opened the door they heard a roaring noise that almost deafened them.

Douglas tried to speak to Dorothy, but though he shrieked at the top of his lungs he could not make Dorothy hear what he had to say to her.

A man came up and spoke to Uncle John.

"Let the children walk around and I'll tell them about it afterward," he screamed, and they just heard his voice as if it came from far, far away.

At first it frightened Dorothy. The machinery was so terrifically big and it seemed as if it could do anything it wanted. It looked so huge and the wheels turning around and around looked as if they could do anything—they were so enormous.

The great dynamos were going so hard. The motors which made the wheels go around never stopped. And workmen seemed to be giving them constant attention.

"They look as if they needed a great deal of care," said Dorothy, as they all walked back toward the door.

"They seem to want it for they are so big and powerful. It's funny but very big and powerful things and very small and weak things always look as though they needed help and attention."

"Won't you tell us what it all means?" asked Douglas, who had been studying it wide-eyed.

"The dynamos are making the electricity," said the man, "so you two children and lots of other children and grown-ups can ride in the subway and the different elevated and car lines. The wheels make the electricity give the trains the power to go."

"But," asked Douglas, "how can this power house be so far away from the subway, and how do they get the power into the underground railway?"

"It goes through huge cables, under the ground," said the man, "and comes with the third rail of the car which gives the electricity to the train."

"Oh, wonder of wonders!" cried Douglas.

Waves of "What are you crying for? What are you going to tick me? What are you doing? Do be! What's that? Now we are all the same business—adventures in order."

Highland, December 14, 1926. Editor, Kingston Freeman:

In the issue of your paper of July 23, 1926, you had a piece signed by the Townsend family which contained several statements which were untrue and which I would like to have corrected. I was in your office shortly after it appeared but you were out. Shortly after, I fell and have not been able to get out since.

My daughter, Grace Scott, was married to Edward Townsend with our full knowledge and consent.

I did not want to remove my daughter's body but was forced to do so because of unpleasantness which arose. I saw a lawyer and had full consent of the Cemetery Association before removing the body.

Success Fired Poe

Edgar Allan Poe was in dire need of money when in 1888 he read in the Saturday Visitor of Baltimore the announcement of a prize contest, in which $100 was offered for the best story, and $50 for the best poem. He wrote a series of six tales to be called "Tales of the Folio Club" for the press entry and for the poetry contest he wrote "The Coliseum." With high hopes he left his contributions at the office of the Saturday Visitor, relating the Washington Post. He was on hand the following Saturday before the first papers were off the press, and when he obtained a copy he found spread before him his own story—the prize winner, "The MBS Found in a Bottle," together with an article of praise and encouragement from the judges. This success proved an inspiration to Poe and brought many successful stories and poems from his pen.

Heavy Snowfall At Watertown

Watertown N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP).—Watertown had to dig itself out this morning from under one of the heaviest snowfalls of years that clogged every highway in this section and even stopped motor traffic in the principal streets of the city.

Snow was waist deep inside the city limits and in the open country where the wind had drifted, it was higher in some places than the tops of automobiles. The temperature was moderate at 28 above zero, but a slight wind, noticeable all night, was growing stronger and threatened to thwart efforts of snow fighters to clear roads and rails. Trains although able to run, were late getting into the city.

Headquarters of the St. Lawrence division of the New York Central in this city announced that the storm was confined within a radius of approximately 50 miles.

Japanese Mushrooms

Many varieties of mushrooms, little known in this country or in Europe, are to be found in Japan. The most esteemed of these is the shi-take, which is chiefly grown on the evergreen oak.

Trees about six inches in diameter are felled and cut into lengths of six feet. The logs are scattered on the back, and are laid on the ground for about three years. Then they are stacked in rows in shady places and soon become covered with the mushrooms. After yielding one crop the logs are soaked in water, beaten with a wooden mallet, and again set up. In a few days new mushrooms begin to sprout on them. The shi-take is a great favorite in Japan, being used in many dishes, but most frequently in soups.

Dogs of St. Bernard

Find Snow Handicap

The dogs to be found today in the great and little St. Bernard passes in Switzerland are of a smaller and less striking type than formerly. They are a cross between the Newfoundland and the sheep dog of the Pyrenees. They have been credited, moreover, with rather more than they can perform, says Charles Lincoln Freeston in the Motor Travel Magazine.

A Swiss professor of Geneva, given to making adventurous cross-country journeys on skis, relates that on one occasion, when he was within sight of the great St. Bernard hospice, the dogs came rushing out, but were unable to reach him through the soft snow, in which they floundered hopelessly. He is of the opinion that the uses of the famous dogs are more limited than is popularly supposed. One can conceive them as being highly serviceable in tracking a weary wayfarer overcome by a sudden blizzard on the road itself, but even St. Bernard dogs cannot walk over snow that is both deep and soft.

Jury Upheld Whitman

in Emphatic Manner

In all his life Whitman was in court but once, and that was rather a joke. While fishing in a pond near Babylon one day, not far from his father's farm, he was continually annoyed by a mischievous boy determined to have his fun, if not at the expense of the fish then at Whitman's. Finally exasperated, the latter coaxed the lad to row near in his boat, and then administered a sound thrashing with his rod. The culprit's father had Walt arrested, entrusting the prosecution of the case in the justice court to Gen. Nicholas Uhall. Sure of himself, Whitman took his own defense. He admitted the thrashing, but excused it on the ground that he was defending the vested rights of fishermen. The jury, whose foreman was a hard-headed farmer with a Yorkshire brogue, returned almost immediately. "Have you arrived at a verdict?" asked the justice.

"We are, your honor."
"What is the verdict?"
"We find 'e didn't 'it 'im' all 'ard enough."

Despite the repeated protest on the part of the justice that the form of the verdict was irregular, the verdict stood.—From "Whitman, an Interpretation in Narrative," by Emory Holloway.

Old New York Churches

According to an enumeration given in "The Stranger's Guide," there were in New York city in 1826, 98 places of worship of one kind or another. They were as follows: Presbyterians, 21 meeting houses; Episcopalians, 18; Baptists, 13 buildings, with two un-owned societies; Dutch Reformed, 13. The Methodist Episcopal churches numbered 7, not counting the Wesleyan seminary on Crosby street and two churches, "for Africans," not officially Methodist. Others were: Roman Catholic, 4 churches and an orphan asylum; Congregational or Unitarian, 3; Lutheran, 3; Calvinist, 2; Friends' meeting houses, 2; Jewish synagogues, 2; and Moravian, 1.

Almost Knew Them All

"The Oxford man" has often been criticized, even by Englishmen, as being rather distantly superior. An Oxford man who had been a "Jack Blue" in his day found himself in Canada and was greatly chafed by a native on the fact that some of his colleagues had been found rather exclusive in their ways and had not proved to be good miners. "That's all rot," explained the Oxford man. "Why, when I was a rowing man, I knew all the men who rowed with me in the college boat, except one or two, and they were right away up in the boat."

MARLBOROUGH.

Marlborough, Dec. 15.—The Traprock Co. and the Cedar Cliff and Rosoff Sand & Gravel Co., located just north of the village of Marlborough, have shipped much material recently for the building of roads throughout New York state. Three cars of crushed stone have just been shipped to Roscoe, N. Y., while in the past eight months orders of 200 and 300 cars have been filled. Much of the material is carried to its destination by railroads, being shipped from here by the West Shore. Barges also are employed in carrying the stone.

Miss Cornelia Young's Sunday school in Marlborough has donated $2 to the nurses' fund.

Mrs. Nicholas Mertes is visiting her sister in Long Island.

J. H. Burke of Highland was in Marlborough on a business trip Tuesday.

Mrs. Henry A. Geade of Woodland is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. B. F. Cicero.

Mrs. E. Casparilla and baby, Gloria, are confined to their home with bronchitis.

The Sunday school of Christ's Episcopal Church will hold a series of parties during the Christmas holidays this year instead of having the usual Christmas celebration. The festivities will be held at the rectory. The primary and junior children will have their party on December 22; the senior party will be held on December 29, at which dancing will be in order.

Miss Edna Connor and M. Cawley of Highland were the guests of Mary

Newell Monday afternoon and evening.

John Hession is visiting his aunt, Mrs. James Weed, in Lattingtown, this week.

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Zacharie attended a turkey dinner and dance held at The Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, Tuesday evening. This event was held by the Ulster County Medical Society.

Miss Zita Tierney of Newburgh visited her sister, Mrs. P. Manion, on Sunday.

Fourteen people joined the Marlborough Presbyterian Church at its communion service Sunday morning. Four brought their letters from other churches, ten joined on confession of faith. Most of the ten were young people who have been members of an instruction class conducted during the past few weeks by the pastor, the Rev. M. C. Cavell. The four who joined by letter were: Mrs. Agnes Carhart, Mrs. H. Townsend Velle, Miss Anna Conn and Miss Mildred Kirkland. Those who joined on confession of faith were: The Misses Glenda Fowler, Frieda Lynn, Ruth Norton, Edith Quimby, Millard Coy, Leland Cassels, Clarence Fetter, Alton Scales, Esmond Scales and Christie Tutill. There was one baptism that of little Muriel Fowler.

Edmund Carpenter, Howard Baker, W. J. Haviland and Fred Velle returned home on Tuesday after spending a week in Virginia.

The Girl Scouts' sewing classes held Friday evening under the direction of Mrs. Nell Eckerson, will be discontinued until after the holidays.

Miss Helen Berkery of Newburgh spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Berkery.

Word has come to friends and relatives in Marlborough of the marriage in Brooklyn on November 16 of Bernard Moore. The bride was Miss Lena Speerer. Mr. Moore is well known in Marlborough where he was born. He is the son of Milo Moore and spent his childhood here. For several years he was in the United States Army but was honorably discharged in September of this year. He has lived in Brooklyn since then and he and his bride will make their home in the Flatbush section of the city.

Mrs. Joseph Tierney of Newburgh spent the first part of the week at the home of her parents.

Fred Velle and William H. Brown have been appointed by the town board as fire commissioners to succeed William Y. Velle and John A. DuBois. William Velle has resigned due to the fact that his residence is now in Newburgh though he keeps up his local interest. His brother has been filling his place temporarily on the commissioners' group and now has officially been appointed to take his place. Mr. Brown takes the place of J. A. DuBois, who resigned two weeks ago.

At the regular monthly meeting of Court Santa Maria, C. D. of A., on Monday evening, there was an election of officers for the coming year. All officers were re-elected with the exception of Miss Evelyn Clark, who holds the office of vice regent, and resigned on account of not being in town. Miss Clark now teaches in New York city. Mrs. P. Manion was elected to fill the office and Mrs. Joseph Tierney resigned on account of her home now being in Newburgh and Mrs. P. J. Gallagher was elected to fill that office as secretary. The installation will take place in January at St. Mary's Hall.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Mary's Hall there will be Christmas tree entertainment and refreshments for the children of St. Mary's Church. Misses Berkery and Dugan have charge and will see that Santa Claus remembers each child.

Y. W. C. A. Girl Reserve News

On Thursday afternoon the girls of the Clugan Club—a Girl Reserve Club—entertained their mothers and friends at tea at the Y. W. C. A. gym. Besides the serving of tea, there was a pretty and symbolic candle-lighting ceremonial, led by Lilian Coffin, president of the club. The ceremonial is called "The Circle of Light". Holding a candle, typifying the flame of the association spirit, the girls formed a circle, each holding a candle, which in passing she lighted from the central flame, while all sang the hymn, "Father of Lights". Fourteen members were recognized: Katherine Rosen, Louise Jones, Helen Oakley, Blanche Hoover.

Then, too, the Live Y-er Club, made up of sophomore, junior and senior members of the high school, held a meeting on Wednesday evening and elected officers as follows: President, Martha Gold; vice president, Mary Quest; secretary, Florence Farrar; treasurer, Ruth Isherwood. These officers with the three following chairmen of standing committees—Margaret Falvey, social committee; Dorothy Flynn, service committee; Ella Cox, program committee—form the cabinet of the club.

The Live Y-er girls are doing as their two bits of Christmas service, the making of Christmas decorations for the Christmas dinner at the City Home, and the giving of a Christmas entertainment program at the Tuberculosis Hospital when the gifts will be distributed, between Christmas and New Year.

A Man's Gift That Always Pleases

A HICKOK Belt of genuine leather, preferably one to match each suit is about as practical a gift as you can select for a man.

Especially if each belt is mounted with a richly designed buckle and beltogram of HICKOK or MASTER PLATE. Such a gift will always please—first because it is practical and secondly because it is a part of the equipment of the man who seeks always to be well dressed.

Early Head Covering

The earliest form of hat known, according to some historians, was the circular, close-fitting cap, worn either plain or braided. Ancient pictures show that it was worn by captives from Palestine in Assyria, and it appeared also on the heads of the pictured deities and sculptured deities among the heathen tribes.

The Greeks in early times wore two kinds of hat, the "pileus" and the "petasus." The former had no brim, while the latter was made of felt and had a wide brim to protect the wearer from the sun. It is believed that the present-day felt hat is its direct descendant.—New York Times

Bad Enough at That

Huckleberry Pundleton is a well-known character in Wisconsin, Maine. Not long since, shortly after dark, an acquaintance found him prone by the roadside, moaning. "What's the matter, Buck?" he inquired.

"I'm ruptured," replied the unfortunate one. "Heard it snap. Get me somewhere so's I kin be taken care of."

He was assisted home and a doctor called. The next day the samaritan met the physician.

"How's Buck's rupture?" he queried.

"Tupure, nothing" was the response. "Huck only busted off a suspender button"—Outlook.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"FEELING BLUE"

TO "FEEL BLUE" is to be depressed and unhappy, sick at heart. And it is in the words "sick at heart" that we find the thread which leads us to the origin and justification for the popular use in this manner of the word "blue."

When people are physically sick they are usually pale and in an extremity of weakness and debility the skin and the lips, particularly the latter, take on a bluish tinge. Frequently we hear the term used in a case of great cold, as "She is frozen blue." And it is to this connection of physical sickness that the phrase "feeling blue" is traced which describes mental or "heart" sickness.

Cancer Immunization

In the opinion of Dr. Edwin F. Smith of Washington, man can become immune to cancer, but probably never will because society cannot direct the mating of men and women resistant to the disease, as is done with animals, says the Pathfinder Magazine. Experiments with animals, he claims, have shown that not only is it possible to breed a race entirely resistant to cancer, but also to breed another race 100 per cent cancerous. He believes the same would apply to the human race were it possible to direct the mating destinies of man. Cancer, he says, can be stopped by operation, if discovered in time. He claims the disease is caused by an organism or parasite.

A Conservative Wish

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

NEW YEAR'S: Of course it's the regular thing to wish you full many a blessing. I do—for I hope that the New Year will bring you pleasure beyond all expressing. And yet if it shouldn't, as sometimes occurs.

Good men and good women, good ladies and gents, I hope that at least it will bring you a mind.

To keep you contented, whatever you find.

New Year's: Well, many will wish you a heap; I join in their wishes, and gladly. But I hope that at least what you have you can keep. And that won't be doing so badly. It's easy to wish and it's easy to want. But some things you can have and some things you can't. And happy the woman and happy the man contented at least with the things that they can.

New Year's: My wishes may seem rather tame, Conservative solemn and sober; And yet you will maybe remember the same.

Along in July or October Though maybe I may not have wished you a feast. You know what I wished that I meant it at least. May say that I really was kinder to you than people who wished what could never come true.

Emblem of Longevity

The stork, when woven in Chinese rugs, is the emblem of longevity. The stork was thought to live to a fabulous age: at 600 years, being too old, it could only drink, and turned black after 1,000 or 2,000 years. A black stork is the design of the rug is particularly significant.

Czar's Coat in Museum

Occupying conspicuous position in the Museum of Terror maintained in Moscow by the Russian state police (formerly known as the Tcheka and now as the Gey-par-oo) are the coat worn by Nicholas II the day the last of the czars was executed in Ekaterinburg, in July, 1918; the finger of the Czarina Alexandra, and the uniform worn by Admiral Koltchak when he was shot by the Red army. According to an article recently printed in the Moscow Wiener Journal, another exhibit is a jar of alcohol containing the heart of a former president of the Leningrad Tcheka who was shot by a student. The museum has a large collection of knouts and other implements of punishment and torture used in czarist days.

All "Got" the Camera

An intrepid explorer in the jungles of Peru recently engaged a group of Indians there to pose for a photograph, arranging with them to point their poisoned arrows at the camera lens for a striking effect. The target was irresistible and each archer "let go" before the camera "shot," with the result that each arrow hit the lens, much to the Indians' glee.

Flyers See More Than Explorers

Lessons in Army's Pan-American flight to view move of Hemisphere in 123 days than ancient conquistadors saw in century.

San Antonio, Dec. 17 (AP)—The Army's pan-American flight will see more of the western hemisphere in the 123 days which it will consume, than the conquistadors saw in a century.

The flight from that point to France will cross the continental divide, visit Cartagena on Colombia's coast. They will retrace the flight from that point to France and again fly south, cruising along the mountainous coast of South America to Valdivia, which is in the center, north and south of Chile.

Neuquen, Argentina, almost directly east of Valdivia, across the Andes, is the next stop and another day of flying will bring the aerial conquistadors back to the Atlantic seacoast where they will turn north along the seacoast. At Buenos Aires the party will desert salt water for a flight up the Parana river to Santa Fe, Corrientes and Asuncion. The latter is the chief city in Paraguay.

The return to the seacoast will carry the squadron back to Buenos Aires from where it will make its way north, around Cape Darien to the Pacific the Pacific coast. A short hop to Balboa makes a weary across the Atlantic will put the squadron in its base at Trinidad. From Trinidad a visit will be paid to Venezuela before the flyers start on the last lap of their journey home. Short hops will take them through the West Indies to Cuba. From that point the trip will follow the Atlantic coast of the United States to Washington. Major Herbert A. Dargue, commander of the flight, hopes to land in Washington April 26.

Color in Cookery

"This is the prettiest salad I ever saw in my life," said one of the guests at a luncheon given to a group of young matrons.

Before her at the little round table was a salad plate of cool yellow Chinese were holding a round bed of California lettuce. Upon the lettuce was an amazing-looking piece of fruit—a ball of delicate green, with a stem at the top. A spoonful of golden mayonnaise at one side, and a sprig or two of cress, completed the most inviting spring concoction imaginable. But what on earth could the fruit be for? It was a fruit, as evidenced by the stem. Could it be some one of the tropical fruits—some queer pomegranate or pear or melon?

The guests peered and wondered. But when forks were at last applied to the odd fruit and its flavor tasted. It proved to be merely a delicious cooked apple, soft but not mushy, chilled to perfection and of melt-in-the-mouth quality. When begged for particulars the hostess explained that the apples were peeled, leaving only the stem at the top, and boiled until tender in a pure sugar syrup to which a little green vegetable coloring had been added. As it boiled slowly the apple absorbed the delicate color and became quite a different-looking fruit. A slice of lemon had been added to the syrup to give zest.

"At Christmas time I cooked the apples in a bright red syrup," confided the housewife, "and you have no idea how pretty they were. They can be made pink by using less of the red coloring, and there is a yellow dye, an orange and a lovely lavender. I don't like to call these colorings 'dyes,' as it doesn't sound wholesome, but of course these vegetable products are entirely pure and harmless and can be safely used. You can make such attractive dishes for luncheons by using different color schemes."

"Other fruits can be colored in the same way, of course, and sometimes I make colored whipped cream for desserts. The least little drop of coloring tints a large amount of sirup or cream. I depend upon these colorings very largely in making my table pretty, not only for special occasions, but for everyday menus."

Bridge to Be Submerged
Across the top of the proposed Conowingo over the Chesapeake river there will be a highway bridge, 100 feet above the foundation, as a part of the main highway between Baltimore and Philadelphia and replacing the old bridge which will be submerged in the reservoir. The highway section will extend outward from the center of the dam; the power house outward. On top of the highway, the crest of which will be 50 feet above sea level, will be 50 movable steel gates, 22½ feet high and 40 feet wide. These gates will maintain the water level behind the dam at 19½ feet above sea level. With all gates open, the discharge rate of the spillway will be 50,000 cubic feet per second.

Primitive Bookkeeping
The old Acadians, or Cajons, of southwestern Louisiana were a primitive people. Their customs, if quaint, were often ingenious. In those early days the sole traders from the outside world were the commercial travelers. They saw some curious things. One of them, making the round of the province in his buggy, stopped at a bookstore, or small Cajon store. The proprietor could neither read nor write. Nevertheless, he had a card index system of credit of his own. This he kept upon pieces of plant, putting down first the mark parable to each dollar. Afterward he added a picture of each article that was bought and charged. An admirable system—Adventure Magazine.

THE NOUVELLISTE READS THE NEWS TO AN APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE

TOWNS WERE FAR APART and news was scarce in the time of Charles the First. Throughout Europe the Nouvelliste, or Reader of the news, was the only authoritative source of information at that time. It was customary for him to read the news in public places, that the inhabitants might enjoy knowledge of recent happenings.

THE PEOPLE of modern towns would not tolerate the meager, inaccurate reports of the 17th century. They demand complete, accurate and interesting dispatches of the world's events.

Money for T. B. Christmas Seals

The Ulster County Tuberculosis Committee urges the 4,000 persons, who have not yet responded in any way to the letters sent them containing Christmas seals, to be good enough to send in the money for the seals promptly now. And in the sending all are asked to be very sure that their name and address is written plainly upon the return envelope furnished by the committee, in order that they may be credited with having paid for their seals and so that it will not be necessary to send them a follow-up letter. Every seal must be accounted for to the State Charities Aid Association, and an accurate check-up is therefore necessary. This can be made easily and quickly, if the names and addresses are on the return envelopes. With the Tuberculosis situation what it is in the county at present, every available cent will be needed to carry on the tuberculosis work, pending such time as we may have a new and up-to-date as well as adequate hospital.

As the undertaker remarked at the funeral of the village sport, "another live wire grounded."

"How many ribs have you, Johnny?" asked the teacher.
"I don't know, ma'am. I'm so awful ticklish I never could count 'em."

"Well, of all the nerve," Gladys said, as she slapped his face. "Don't ever try to kiss me again."
"All right," he replied, meekly. "If that's how you feel about it, get off my lap."

Ask Dad, he knows. It takes more than a cheer leader to brighten the father of a large family when the Christmas bills come due.

"I hope they don't give my little boy any naughty nicknames in school?"
"Yes, ma, they call me 'Corn.'"
"How dreadful! And why do they call you that?"
"Cause in our class, you know, I'm always at the foot."

Spend five minutes every day thinking of some good you can do someone—then do it.

The honeymoon is over when the wife refuses to drink your home-made gin.

Girls who paint their faces like to run around with the guys who paint the town.

A man says he and his wife don't quarrel. When she gets mad he whistles, and when he gets mad she sings.

"Jedge, yo' honoh," complained an irate colored lady to the court, "dis yeh no 'count husban' o' mine drinks."
"Yassuh, jedge, yo' honoh, ah does drink some," admitted the husband. "But, jedge, dat woman don't treat me right. Why, ah pawns de kitchen stove 't' git a lil' money an' she don't miss it for 'two weeks."

Affections of Beauty

It was a certain affection becoming to his beauty that made Alexander carry his head on one side, and Alcibiades to limp; Julius Caesar scratched his head with one finger, which was the fashion of a man full of troublesome thoughts; and Cicero, as I take it, was wont to wrinkle up his nose, as a sign of a man given to scoffing. Amongst irregular countenances, let us not forget that severe one of Emperor Constantine, who always in public held his head quite upright, without bending or turning on either side, not so much as to look upon those who saluted him on one side, planting his body in a stiff, immovable posture, without suffering it to yield to the motion of the coach; not daring so much as to spit, blow his nose, or wipe his face before people.—Montaigne.

Dancing Birds

Many of the birds of South America have the regularly formed habit of meeting periodically in the same place for the purpose of dancing. Some sing as they dance, others accompany the retreat by something unquestionably like instrumental music. The rufous tanagers themselves in a circle around level, mossy or soft ground, and one of them, bright with orange and vivid scarlet plumage, leaves the circle and advances to the center of the space with the dignity of a courtier dancing a minuet, his wings spread and tail like a fan. He begins slowly, then gradually increasing speed, terminates his performance by leaping and whirling until he falls from exhaustion.

Santa Claus Visits Veterans

None of the boys and girls, who saw Santa Claus as he visited Joyce-Schrick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at their club rooms on Broadway and Brewster street Thursday night, is likely to forget the event. Santa made a dramatic entrance and under the eager eyes of the youngsters strode over to the big Christmas tree in one corner of the room. There he dispensed with all kinds of gifts and not a boy or girl was forgotten, even though the meeting room was crowded to the limit. After disposing of all the presents, Santa stood in the midst of a group of happy children and told A. H. Lipgar, uptown photographer, to take a flashlight picture of himself and the youngsters.

Santa's appearance was preceded by Harry Malsenheider in a flute solo, accompanied by Miss Byrnie McKinley on the piano, Jerry Martin in a recitation, John Rowland in vocal selections, Master Harry Macholdt in a piano solo, and the Rev. Father Mabry, who delivered a short address in which he emphasized the different manner in which the young men of today are spending Christmas from that of two Christmas days spent in France.

"What Price Religion?"

The second of the series of lectures on "What Price Religion" will be held this evening at the Hebrew Institute, 293 Wall street, by Rabbi Morris Clark. This evening he will discuss "What is Religion?"

In his address last Friday evening, Rabbi Clark asserted that no sacrifice can be too great if it is brought in the cause of true religion. In this evening's talk he will endeavor to distinguish between superstition, ceremonialism and fundamental religion. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The Revolt of the Genii

By WALTER ARNOLD

(Copyright.)

ALBERT OAKHAM was forty years old and unmarried. The reason was that in all those forty years he had never wanted a wife. That was what he told those impertinent people who asked him why he had remained single. When he wanted a wife he reckoned he would get one—he always had got everything he wanted so far. When he was a child his parents spoiled him, and after their death, leaving him with a great fortune, he continued the process by spoiling himself. Aladdin had a lamp and when he rubbed it genii appeared and provided him with anything he wanted—slaves of the lamp. Albert Oakham had something just as good—a check-book with a huge bank account behind it. When he scratched the check-book with a pen obsequious genii in up-to-date clothes appeared and brought him what he desired.

And now at forty Oakham scratched the magic book and ordered a wife. Not just any wife, you understand, but a certain one; a young lady whom he himself had picked for the position. Of the genii who responded to the call Albert selected Mrs. Florencia Wareham. Mrs. Wareham was a society woman—that was her business. She had no money, but she knew society from A to Z and was the most successful matchmaker going.

Now don't for a minute picture Mrs. Florencia Wareham as an old woman. She was not even middle-aged. She had been married off by her parents when she was hardly out of her "teens" to a man much older than herself who had gone into bankruptcy and died a year after their marriage. Mrs. Wareham was only thirty-five, strikingly good looking and bright as they make 'em. Secretly she loathed the part she had been forced to play in the social game, but custom carried her on.

Oakham had met Alice Brixton only twice when he resolved that she was the person he desired for his wife, and had a talk with Mrs. Wareham. Then everywhere Alice was invited. Albert was invited. Mrs. Wareham arranged that. She also arranged "accidental meetings" between them. Mrs. Wareham's many friends also helped through sheer good nature. Alice was at first a little offish. She had fixed her regards upon a struggling young lawyer not at all in her set, either socially or financially. This much to the distress of her estimable parents, who quivered with hope when Albert Oakham appeared on the scene.

Alice was one of those athletic girls—you know the kind. She was tall, stately, black-eyed. No word regarding matrimony had ever passed between her and her young lawyer. He felt that aspiring to Alice was like crying for the moon and she hesitated to give him the encouragement which would have caused him to overleap all financial and social considerations and seize upon the prize regardless of consequences. Alice soon began to think of her young lawyer with a sigh—to regard him as something desirable but impossible—and to accustom herself to look forward to being Mrs. Alfred Oakham. Everything was going according to schedule—as things always went when Albert Oakham scratched his magic book, though sometimes he had to scratch harder than usual.

Then all at once things began to go wrong. Through some misunderstanding when Alice Brixton was invited to a house party on Long Island, expecting to meet Albert Oakham there, Albert would be invited to a house party in New Jersey—and the other way about. There were dozens of other little things which seemed to be keeping them asunder or destroying their harmony of intercourse. Some hidden, malicious influence seemed to be at work. Albert spoke to Mrs. Wareham about it. They were alone in Albert's library at the time.

"Yes," said Mrs. Wareham. "It is as you say—and I am responsible. You promised me a large amount of money if I would bring about a marriage between you and Alice Brixton. You knew her affections were engaged elsewhere—and so did I. You were afraid that if you plunged boldly in and demanded Alice for a wife you would simply provoke her into going off and marrying her young lawyer out of hand. You wanted my skill to bring about the result desired, and were willing to pay for it. I have taken such contracts before and have not been particularly ashamed. I took this one and became ashamed. I am ashamed of my whole life of sham—society and everything connected with it. Next week I am going to begin as a settlement worker. And I may as well tell you that Alice Brixton was married to her young lawyer, in New Jersey, yesterday—and I was present. In fact, I brought them together."

She arose and started to leave the room. "Hey! Here! Where are you going?" cried Alfred.

"I am going home," replied Mrs. Wareham.

"Come back here; I want to talk to you; sit down," commanded Alfred. She obeyed and they sat there talking for over an hour. Three months later society was dumfounded at the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Florencia Wareham, widow of the late Zeph Wareham, and Alfred Oakham, Esq.

Army Flyers Men Of Experience

Each of Ten Who Will Start on Army's Pan-American Flight Have Taken Leading Part in Developing Army's Air Service.

San Antonio, Dec. 17 (AP).—Ten men who have taken a leading part in developing the army air service, by doing the day's work every day and leaving spectacular accomplishments to others, will pilot the five amphibian planes that leave here December 20 for a tour of South America, Central America and the West Indies.

When air service headquarters asked commanders of various flying units over the country to recommend men to make the flight the request specified that those men recommended should be master flyers who deserved the honor. The idea was to obtain men who had sacrificed the glamour and fame of spectacular flights to give all of their time to the less noticeable, but equally important phases of conquering the air. All of the flyers are competent aerial engineers and all have had long experience in the army. Major Herbert A. Dargue is the oldest of the group, which ranges between 30 and 40 years in age. Major Dargue is the veteran of many responsible undertakings. He was a star fencer at West Point, later the only air service officer in the Philippines, the first flyer to receive a wireless message aloft, and finally in charge of all army flying instructions in the United States. This appointment came just as the armistice was signed. He will pilot the "New York" ship of the expedition, with Lieutenant Paul C. Whitehead as relief pilot. Lieutenant Whitehead, born in Kansas and graduated from the University of Kansas, has had extensive engineering training and signal corps work. Captain A. B. McDaniel, who as second in command, will fly the "San Antonio" just to the right and behind the "New York" was born and educated in Texas and has done most of his flying here. For two years he was in charge of all flying instruction at Kelly field. He was originally in the infantry but was transferred to the Air Service and started to study aviation while in the army of occupation. He will fly with Lieutenant C. McK. Robinson, a graduate of Ohio State University and an athlete while in college.

Captain Ira C. Baker, third ranking officer of the flight, will take his place in the V formation just behind and to the left of Major Dargue's "New York". Captain Baker, a native Texan, was assigned to the "San Francisco" partly because he has spent a great deal of time in the west at Rockwell Field. He is an all round flyer and has had considerable executive experience at various posts. His companion, Lieutenant Mel S. Fairchild, was educated in Washington State University and learned to fly with the Italian army. "The Detroit", which will be the last plane on the right leg of the V, will be in command of Captain Clinton P. Woolsey, a native of Michigan. In recognition of Captain Woolsey's technical knowledge, he has been made maintenance officer and will have charge of adjusting and tuning the planes. He flies with Lieutenant John W. Benton, a Californian and a graduate of the University of California. Lieutenant Benton, as did most of the Pan-

American crew, rose from a private. He has had experience in practically every field in this country and is considered a crack all-around airman. Lieutenant Bernard S. Thompson, a native of Florida, will pilot the last ship on the left leg of the V, the St. Louis. He is a graduate of the Air Service Communications School. His companion, Lieutenant Leonard D. Weddington, is the third native Texan to make the flight. He will act as photographic expert of the cruise, having graduated from the Air Service Photography School. Most of the flyers are married and have families.

Federation of Women's Clubs

Following the routine opening business of the Executive Committee of the Federation of Women's Clubs held at the Kingston City Library on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. A. Ray Fowley, president of the Federation reported that from the various clubs and women's organizations of the city there would be seventeen warm blankets and several knit afghans ready for Christmas at the Tuberculosis Hospital. Mrs. Van Ingen, president of the Twentieth Century Club, paid a fine compliment to the Federation president for the admirable report of the state convention which she gave to the Twentieth Century Club at one of its recent meetings. Sorosis reported as its Christmas cheer work, the gift of bags of nuts to the patients at the Tuberculosis Hospital.

Dr. Day, chairman of the Moving Picture Committee, told of the use now of films for work in surgery and medicine in which the great motion picture corporations are cooperating with medical colleges, etc. In Chicago, a movement for a sane Hal-lowe'en was inaugurated by 112,000 school children attending 69 different motion picture theatres and learning some excellent civic lessons while having a good time, with no damage done to anyone. Dr. Day also gave a very interesting account of the showing of motion pictures to immigrants on incoming vessels, before landing, giving them excellent "Americanization" lessons. Secretary Davis and others inspected the pictures shown to 400 immigrants on board one such vessel before it reached quarantine. There was a short story shown about Abraham Lincoln, that called forth enthusiastic applause. Then there were films telling how to secure jobs, how to become naturalized, etc., which set a new day at sea for the immigrant. These pictures were given by some of the big motion picture companies, as one of their details of "Service."

As chairman of Public Health Committee, Dr. Day had some very interesting facts to tell about the progress of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale, to date. Already close to $5,000 has been received from the letters sent out, which means, that, in spite of the cost of putting on the sale by mail, the committee already has some $300 more than last year, with about 4,000 letters still to be heard from. And then Dr. Day made another plea for a quick return of money for the sales, and especially for the name and address of the sender to be placed on the return envelope. As the Tuberculosis Committee is obliged to give an accounting of all the seals they have received, they will be obliged to send out "follow up" letters to all persons whose names are not in some way recorded on the cards bearing their addresses used to send them the seals. So there will be some 112 persons who have either sent money, or returned seals, who will still get a follow-up letter because they did not give any name and address. The committee regrets this but it cannot be avoided.

At the meeting it was voted to contribute $20 to the yearly budget of the Y. M. C. A.

Announcement was made that the next open meeting would occur the third Saturday in January, with the Lowell Club acting as the hostess club.

Warfare Between Plants

Some of the plants, vegetables and trees Nature placed in the world will not live in peace when near each other; they are at war and destroy each other ruthlessly. Scientists have learned the roots of the walnut and butterbean trees are poisonous to the roots of many plants, while tomatoes and potatoes will destroy each other if planted close and their roots touch each other. The cinchona weed in Vermont dies if seeds are sown near a butterbean tree, while in India and land clear of walnut trees will grow no crops for a number of years, so strongly have the roots of the trees affected the chemical qualities of the soil.—(Columbia Journal.)

Old Slave "Station"

The "grand central station" of the underground railway system, through which fugitive slaves were smuggled northward to Canada in antebellum days, still stands at Fountain City, Ind., nine miles north of Richmond. It is a two-story brick house, the old Levi Coffin homestead. It appears almost the same today as when it was used as a hiding place by the slaves. The room in which about three thousand slaves secreted themselves during operation of the "railroad" is the guest. Coffin's enterprise and courage in smuggling slaves excited him to leadership of the movement. As early as 1820 he began to take fleeing slaves into his home.—Indianapolis News.

Valuable Stamp

A Western Australia penny stamp, 1853, surcharged three times—an exceedingly rare example—was sold at an auction in London for $130. Twenty-four Tonga halfpenny stamps of 1894, were sold for $150. The feature of these stamps was the surprising "hairs".

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified cod liver oil that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, cod liver oil is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to cod liver oil, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the cod liver oil goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Chicago Bears
Meet Kingston
Here Tonight

The stage is set for the contest to be played between the Chicago Bears and the Kingston Bears at the local armory tonight and the large net has been removed from the court and the baskets adjusted in order to make the game more interesting. The debut of American League teams will be made for the first time this evening and the new method of conducting the games will go into effect, that is A. A. U. rules will be used, except that a player will not be disqualified for personal fouls.

The Kingston aggregation will be somewhat changed as Grinstead, Riccio and Powers will not appear in the Kingston uniform. Willie McElwain the latest addition to the local forces will be teamed with Benny Horgan as a forward. Tom will probably do his bit as center, although Morley is scouting for a new pivot man and may secure one by game time. However, Tom is in good shape and is expected to play up to the standard ball. Nick Horvay and Mickey Husta will do their best to hold down the score as guards, at which positions the two husky King-Pat players excel.

The Chicago quietest come to this city with a considerably good record, having won four games out of eight for the season. The games in which the Bears were defeated were played on eastern courts but the five have always manifested their agility and knowledge of the sport and have pleased the spectators on their visit to the east.

That the A. A. U. jurisdiction produces fast games and puts the player to the utmost test is exhibited by the fact that Lou Sugarman's five including the famous Jerry Sullivan Barrows and Rebus, lost seven games out of nine during the season. The Rochester Central who played in Kingston several years past while the Metropolitan League was in progress, and proved a fast quietest lost seven and won three games so far this season. The Providence representatives of every game after entering the American League and surrendered their franchise to the Celtics who played one game since their debut in Joe Carr's league defeating Washington.

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—The fight of Guskey Graham, speedy Utica bantamweight, to a ranking position before the throne of Champion Phil Rosenberg, will be challenged tonight by Tony Canzoneri, youthful New York sensation, in the feature contest of a bantamweight tournament at Madison Square Garden. Four ten round bouts are on the card.

Canzoneri, a sharpshooter with both hands, fought his way to Graham's side through the lesser lights of his division with an aggressive two fisted style of milling. Graham recognized as Rosenberg's outstanding challenger in New York, is booked to meet the champion in the same ring next month.

Other matches bring together Carl Tremaine of Cleveland, and Andy Martin of Boston; Pete Sarmiento of the Philippines, and Dominick Petrone of New York; Johnny Green and Vic Buirone, both of New York.

Sport Briefs
Of All Sorts

(By the Associated Press.)

Whereas a Princeton championship football team in the past meant one victory over both Harvard and Yale, the break in relations with Harvard has forced the Tigers to alter the classification. In the future it will be a team that defeats Yale and all other regularly scheduled American colleges, the Princeton undergraduate committee has decided.

The visit of Edwin Wide, Swedish distance running champion, will cause no controversy in amateur athletic union ranks despite the body's ban on foreign athletes. Fred W. Rubien, secretary of the organization, said today. The case of Wide, visiting the United States to study school teaching methods and paying his own expenses, is entirely different from foreign "hip-droning" athletes, Rubien said, and has not yet been officially considered by the A. A. U. Wide is due in New York January 2.

Dog mushers already are heading toward The Pas, Manitoba, for the annual "dog derby" the most picturesque of the northwest's winter sports events. The drivers in 20 below zero temperatures, are training their dog teams with 50 mile jaunts through the snow for the races on January 25, 26 and 27.

Do Without Glasses

The Andorrans drink long and copiously from leather bottles to exactly the same way as the Jewish patriarchs did, only with this exception—that they hold it a few inches from the mouth and allow the wine of the country to pour in. This makes cups and glasses unnecessary, for all drink from the same bottle, and one suffices for a family.

Chance of Quick
Raise in Sport

The world of sport probably offers the biggest increase in salary in the shortest length of time of all lines of endeavor.

Back in 1916 Gene Tunney received $90 for his first fight. He received that sum for knocking "Keno" Jaffe flatter than a phonograph record in three rounds.

Ten years later, in 1926, this very same Gene Tunney received $200,000 for relieving Jack Dempsey of the world's heavyweight championship at the end of ten rounds of fighting at Philadelphia.

In his Jaffe scrap, Tunney was paid at the rate of $6.67 per minute for less than nine minutes of actual scrapping, whereas ten years later he received the royal sum of $6,667 per minute for his 30-minute argument with Jack Dempsey. When Tunney defends his title, his salary will increase accordingly.

CLEAN FOOTBALL
TAUGHT BY WILCE

At All Times He Is Sportsman First and Coach Second

Doctor Wilce, head coach of the Ohio State University football team, has always taught his teams to play clean football. He has been, at all times, a sportsman first and a coach second. He has tried to instill these principles into his players. At times one of them may violate the code, but if the doctor hears about it the player is in for trouble. Last year one of the linemen, a fellow that has given him trouble, slapped Benny Friedman. Unfortunately for the lineman, Doctor Wilce happened to see him slap Friedman. Before another play was called the lineman was on the bench with the doctor in action at his side.

Attending a dinner last winter the doctor was called on for a speech. The toastmaster indicated to the guests that Wilce would probably tell them how Ohio State happened to lose a certain game.

As the doctor arose the guests settled back to hear an oily alibi, such as football coaches often give. The doctor gave them a shock when he explained:

"The reason was simple. The team was better coached than ours, and they played better football."

That is the doctor all over. He is that kind of a man.

He has done much for Ohio State and a great deal for football. Also he has written the best book on football that has yet been printed.

We hope, writes H. G. Salsinger in Detroit News, that one of these days the doctor receives some of the credit long due him.

There are many who at the same time doffed their varsity numerals for the last time but Friedman and Kassel, Hess and the others, have written their names in a bold hand across football's pages.

The passing of Flora and the camp Friedman takes the heart out of Michigan's great aerial combination of the past few seasons, leaving Oberstar as the remaining one side of the triangle.

Hess takes All-American football out of Ohio's line. Quarterback Clark leaves the backfield with Kassel, and all told the Buckeyes lose more than a dozen of the regulars who have made a brilliant record this fall.

Michigan loses eight varsity men. Northwestern will suffer chiefly in the line. Chicago loses Captain Marks and two other backs, while Captain Harrison is one of the nine departing with Wisconsin. Iowa's loss is Captain Smith and five or six others and Purdue loses Captain Hogan and all told a dozen more. Minnesota will lose several others. Virginia and Captain Wheeler.

5 DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

K. H. S. Freshmen
Will Organize

On Thursday afternoon over 300 freshmen gathered in Hall B and manifested an eager and enthusiastic spirit when they decided to organize the freshman class, a matter which many classes in the past have overlooked and considered of no great importance. But the members of this year's class seem to be interested in all matters sponsored by the school and the upper classmen, making their presence very evident and much felt by the institution.

The freshmen, who compose about one-third of the total number of students in the school, elected the following for their executive body: Howard Thomas, chairman; Virginia Stewart, vice-chairman; and Gordon Watts, secretary-treasurer. These representatives with the faculty advisors, Miss Newsome, Miss Bailey, Miss Forst, Mr. Palen and Mr. Paul, will constitute the executive portion of the organization and have the power to appoint all working committees.

Mr. Van Ingen, principal of Kingston High School, is well pleased with the activities of the freshman class.

Discretion at Bottom of All Good Manners

When two beasts of the jungle meet in a path and do not wish to fight or to devour one another, each steps aside to allow the other passage.

When two civilized men meet in a path, each steps aside and calls his surrender of the right of way a virtue. It is not at all probable that good manners originated in kindness of heart. The first manifestation of the quality we call courtesy must have been mere discretion.

But because man delights in his own approval and ever makes a virtue of necessity, we now have a universal belief that good manners are wholly a result of good breeding and laborious grace.

The truth is that good manners are acquired, now as always, to avoid punishment.

Children acquire them to avoid being spanked; youngsters who lacked proper training in childhood acquire them to avoid being ostracized; the new-rich acquire them to avoid being snubbed.

It is all very well to scold the rustic and domineering bully who can lift a rearing heifer, and praise his humble and considerate brother who tips the scales at 98, but who knows how much of the manners of each is caused by the strength of his biceps?

There is nothing in the Teuton Junker's nature that makes him a bully. If he swaggered through life with a chip on his shoulder before the sad days of 1914, it was because he believed he could lick the world.

Who expects a Breton track to exhibit exquisite road manners? The truck can dominate the highway, and the driver knows it. It isn't human nature to be gentle if one has the whip hand.

Give the average man authority, civil or military, and he wastes little courtesy on those of lower rank.

There are gentle folk who, for pride's sake, preserve their good manners under all circumstances, but these are relatively few.

The average man in well-mannered because discretion compels him. The voice he uses to drive out a book agent isn't the one he employs when he is trying to sell you something.—Baltimore Sun.

PA JUDD SEES SOME CITY LIFE

By H. M. EGBERT

(Copyright by W. G. Chapman)

"NOW, I've heard enough of that talk, Pa Judd," exclaimed Lucinda Judd, pushing back her spectacles and confronting her husband angrily across the table. "You ought to be ashamed to think of such things."

"Maybe I ought," admitted Mr. Judd. "But I was only colloquializing."

"You can ventriloquize all you want to, Pa. But this has got to stop. Wanting to see life at sixty, indeed! And I life enough for you?"

"Yes, my dear, you are. But what I meant is this. We married when we were only children, and then the babies came so fast, and it wasn't 'til last year that our youngest left us, and somehow I feel I wish I had my fling. Not a bad fling, you know, ma, but just cutting a sort of caper."

"Such as how?" demanded his wife ominously.

"Why, I'd like to run into New York and see the shows and put up at a hotel, and—"

"And some hussy'd get you, sure as fate, Pa."

"Nobody's ever in my eyes but you, ma," answered Pa diplomatically. "No, my dear, but then there's Adam Green, who writes me regularly every New Year. Fine big grocery store he has in Harlem, and I haven't seen him for twenty years. And O. Harris. And—let me see—Jim Brathwaite, who's head of the packing department of Ebenezer Jeffrey's china store."

"And you want to leave me here?" demanded Mrs. Judd.

"Well, my dear, after I've explored the city a bit, maybe I'll write you to come on. We ought to have a little trip for once. But we can't both go there, knowing nothing of city ways. Why, it wouldn't be safe for a settled woman like you until I learned the ropes."

"There! That's enough, Pa. You, shan't go. How can I face my niece, Lizzie Spears, and you not here, and tell her you've gone off on a spree alone?"

"Lizzie? You ain't going to Lizzie's?"

"No, but Lizzie's coming here on a visit. Read that!" She pushed a letter across the table. "Wonder if she favors her ma or her pa. Pretty girl, her ma writes me, and she's been run down from overwork and is going to spend a month with us to recover. I'm going over to Watertown to fetch her next week."

"Let me go, ma."

"You'll stay here," answered his wife firmly.

Stay he did, while his wife departed on the three days of her little holiday. Pa Judd was under instructions to have the house as neat as a pin for their coming. But on that morning he received a letter from his wife, inclosing a hundred-dollar bill. He gasped as it fluttered out. His wife was the family banker, but—what was she sending him a hundred dollars for?

The letter informed him that she had had such a good time she had changed her mind and thought he ought to have his little holiday.

"But you'll have to get off tomorrow before noon," the letter ran, "because I've told Lizzie you're away, and it wouldn't look decent for you to go after she comes."

Pa Judd needed no second invitation. A few hours later saw him firmly established in New York, in an inexpensive hotel, which seemed to him, nevertheless, the height of magnificence.

He spent a happy evening wandering up and down Broadway, looking into the moving picture shows and staring in wonder, and with rather a guilty conscience, at the specimens of feminine beauty on the famous thoroughfare.

When he got back to the hotel he felt that he was seeing life at last. Next day he meant to look up his friends.

But the next morning he found a lady at his table, one of the most rushing young women whom he had ever seen. She was dressed in the height of fashion, and she showed a marked inclination to be friendly to him. Before the meal was over they were chatting like old friends, and he had told her the story of his life five times.

In this story, whose later versions varied from the earlier ones, Ma Judd always appeared as the angel by the hearth, for Pa was sincerely fond of his wife; but Pa gradually grew from a misunderstood youth, condemned to a life of servitude upon a farm, to a modest hero who had deliberately forewarned the wicked world.

At lunch the lady was there again. Now it was her turn to confide in Pa. She told him that she was a newspaper on a vacation and offered to show him some of the sights of the city.

"Pa Judd, he did not know whether or this was quite proper, but he did not want to confess his ignorance."

"I guess a bright young lady like you don't want to run round with an old feller like me," he said.

"I advise men of fifty," answered the young woman.

Pa, who knew that sixty lay a little, but yet irreversibly behind him, smiled with pleasure. They took a car downtown to the aquarium.

"This is where the Four Hundred promenade on Sunday mornings," said the young lady.

"You don't say?" ejaculated Pa, staring at the sea lion.

Afterward they saw the Brooklyn bridge and went up the Woolworth building. At every step Pa Judd's enthusiasm grew.

"You're a wonder," he said in amazement. "And to think you live here and all this comes natural to you. I should like my wife to meet you."

"I guess she mightn't feel that way," said the young lady, laughing. "What do you say to a little supper, Mr. Judd?"

This, Pa felt sure, was wrong. In fact, he had often read of stately visitors into restaurants and there ran up bills for incredible sums—two dollars, or even more! Besides, he knew Ma Judd would never have sanctioned this. He resolved not to say one word about the events of that day to her. Yet he meekly accepted the young lady's suggestion and soon after he found himself seated at a table facing her and wondering at his situation. This was seeing life with a vengeance.

"How much money have you, Mr. Judd?" she asked abruptly, as the meal drew to an end.

Slowly and reluctantly Pa Judd produced his hundred dollar bill. Then he fished out eight seventy-five more.

"Why, you're a millionaire!" said the young lady. "I'll take this bill for a hundred and pay the waiter."

"Stop!" muttered Pa Judd.

The young lady looked at him scornfully. "What do you mean?" she asked. "Do you think I am going to steal it?"

"No, but—but I thought I'd pay," faltered Pa.

"My dear boy," said the young lady—and Pa blushed with pleasure—"don't you know it is always the woman who pays?"

Pa, who had dimly heard words to that effect, suffered the young lady to take his hundred dollar bill and watched her pass quickly through the crowded room. Minutes passed. More minutes passed. The waiter was looking at Pa. He thrust the bill under his nose. Pa glanced at it. It was for four dollars and twenty cents.

"Your friend's gone, sir," said the waiter, as Pa looked up beseechingly into his face.

Pa staggered out of the restaurant. Early the next morning, having located Adam Green, and, after a conversation concerning earlier days, having succeeded in convincing him of his identity, Pa Judd touched Adam for fifteen dollars, much to Adam's disgust, paid his hotel bill, and took the homeward train.

He reached the little town with 90 cents in his pocket. The place had never looked so fresh and wholesome. Behind him lay the great city, with its abominations. Pa was cured—absolutely cured of his desire for adventure. And his brains were awfully with stories for home consumption.

Lucinda had told him nothing about any change, but he had taken it for granted that she would expect at least $75. He had not succeeded in harmonizing the various excuses over which he was meditating when he found that his legs had stepped in front of the house door. And there was Lucinda, fresh as a daisy, waiting to greet him.

"Well, you didn't stay long, Pa," she said. "Are you glad to be home again?"

"You bet," answered Pa fervently.

"Well, Lizzie's here," said his wife. "Lizzie! Here's your uncle home. Come and kiss your Uncle Judd."

Before Pa realized it a burly young woman was in his arms, imprinting a kiss on either cheek. Pa stared and gulped. It was the young lady of the hotel—also of the restaurant.

Lucinda having vanished, Pa looked at his niece with a mixture of emotions depicted on his face. Lizzie smiled.

And Pa felt something slipped into his hand. He looked down at his hundred-dollar bill. He looked up into Lizzie's still smiling face.

"It's a present," he asked, something the words to his humiliation.

"You," nodded his niece, trying hard not to laugh. "But she doesn't know. She was anxious about you, uncle, and I had to go to New York, so I—I tracked you from the station. You think she thinks I ever get in a word with you?"

"You're a good girl, Lizzie," said Pa, with gratitude. "Say, though, would you mind kissing your uncle again? I'm mighty grateful that you didn't do it yesterday."

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Washington—What! no beans? There's a sketch in vanderbilt in which a Bostonian shows his wife when she serves a sumptuous dinner Saturday night. The department of agriculture announces that the bean crop is 2,000,000 or more bushels short of normal.

Paris—A has pate de foie gras. Roast beef of old England is now prominent on French menus. Also Yorkshire pudding and kidney pie.

New York—Home-ness has its advantages. Mrs. Cora Dorian, 59, accused by her husband, was exonerated by a jury after her attorney pleaded: "How can this woman, old and unattractive hate any appeal for any man?"

New York—Miss Varley Sims, granddaughter of the admiral, has the best carriage of any girl at Barnard College. She is tall and broad shouldered and does no correction for her clear complexion. From earliest childhood, she says, her father told her to throw her shoulders back and her head up, and outdoor sports contributed to her health and brightness. She won a prize in the college's annual health week.

Hollywood, Calif.—Neither diamond nor sapphire can buy any of Valentino's wardrobe, says A. George Altman, the shirt's manager and decorator. "I can't do it. These clothes nearly talked to me. Rather than let anyone else have them I'll buy them myself."

New York—Successful returns.

are that Mrs. Lotty Schoenmel, Miss Clarabelle Barrett and Miss Eva Morrison will wear axle grease in order to avoid shivers and shanks on the way to Catalina Island next month.

Chicago—What may be a loss to alimony will surely be a great gain for West Point. Willie Marks, one of Alonzo Stagg's bright boys, is refusing many screen offers. He wants to learn how to fight for Uncle Sam.

Just Why One Mother Moved From Big City

It gives one to think, as the French say. The happening was this: The youngest and prettiest of a group of child dwellers in a certain apartment house was giving a farewell card party to her most intimate friends just before moving into a small and unpretentious suburban home. There was an insistent chorus of "Why do you do it?"

"For Patricia's sake," replied the youngest and prettiest. "But Patricia's only a baby. What will country life mean to her?" came the response from the others, who had agreed that to move to an undesirable suburb was to commit social suicide in a very unattractive way.

"Patricia is four," explained her mother. "and I thought it didn't matter where she lived, so long as I followed all the newest fashions for making little babies. And one day by chance I took her with me on an errand that required going a little way into the suburbs."

"We passed some very little houses with very little lawns, utterly unattractive except for groups of young children running about on the grass, playing tag, hide and seek—all the things that live children do. I heard a loud shriek from Patricia and I got

Tobacco Dust as An Insecticide

General, N. Y., Dec. 17.—New York state fruit growers may be growing their own machine for their prayers and dusts within the next few years if practical means can be devised for converting the raw product into satisfactory physical condition for use in spray machinery. This statement is based on recent findings by the entomologist at the State Experiment Station here who have been making a study of the effectiveness of tobacco ground to a fine dust as a source of nicotine and of ways and means of rendering it even more effective.

Nicotine is the most expensive ingredient entering into modern insecticides, says the Station entomologist. Tobacco dust, if ground sufficiently fine and combined with the proper preparations of water and lime, is an excellent source of nicotine. Strains of tobacco of high nicotine content have already been developed, and the production of the crop in this state has been proved thoroughly practical. Whether or not the individual fruit grower can be encouraged to grow this high-nicotine tobacco for use in his sprays and dusts now depends very largely on the perfecting of methods for converting the tobacco plant into a suitable dust.

Water and Lime Release Nicotine. Experiments completed recently at this Station show that the effectiveness of pure tobacco dust as an insecticide depends largely on its physical condition very materially, while the addition of water to the mixture of lime and tobacco dust hastens the liberation of the nicotine and renders the mixture much more effective against insect pests. Dust mixtures containing equal amounts of lime and tobacco have given excellent results. Mixtures of this sort to which small amounts of water have been added have proved especially effective against cauliflower aphids on Long Island where many of the Station tests have been made.

The possibilities of developing a source of nicotine which will insure a supply of this valuable insecticide at a lower cost than commercial nicotine are believed to be within the reach of New York fruit growers in the not very distant future.

Jackdaws Made Homes in Old Church Clock

In the town of St. John's church, Spalding, England, the jackdaws have been keeping up their old reputation as disturbers of the church's peace.

The jackdaw of Relms hopped off with the archbishop's ring; the jackdaws of Spalding have stopped the church clock.

When the great bell of St. John's should have been booming out the hour across the Lincolnshire fens there was silence, and silence at the quarters and the half hour. The clock had gone on a strike.

When the anxious churchwardens searched the belfry for the cause, they found that the jackdaws which fluttered in and out of the church tower's windows had extended their nooting operations to the clock. They had not purloined any of the works, but had imported enough twigs to fill three wheelbarrow loads. The most resolute clock could not hold out against this stuffing, which had so impeded the hammer that it could not fall and mark the flight of time.

Bird Population

Bird authorities of this country have been endeavoring to arrive at the bird population of the country and have gathered statistics indicating that there are about forty times as many birds on the globe as there are human beings. That would mean about 75,000,000,000 or something like 224 birds for every 100 acres of land. Narrowing down to the United States, the bureau of biological survey computes that in our northeastern and central states there are some 32,000,000 robins. Next comes the English sparrow, of course, with over 60,000,000. The song sparrows come third with 50,000,000 or so. Then the catbird, and fifth the bluebird. The United States has over 5,000,000,000 birds.

Proof Wanted

The disheveled stranger bounded into the police station and walked up to a desk behind which a man in uniform was writing in a ledger.

"Are you in charge?" he asked. "I am," responded the other, without looking up.

The stranger gasped, then he threw out his chest and, in dramatic tones, exclaimed:

"Sergeant, I'm lost!"

"You are, are you?" said the other, still writing in his ledger. "Well, if you can prove that anyone has missed you, we'll take up the case."

Modish Coats Feature Huge Novelty Cuffs

With the featuring of huge novelty cuffs on the newer coats, enters an element of romance. Does not the very mention of pirate or troubadour cuffs, far so are these, deep flaring cuffs called, suggest "days of old, when knights were bold?" Certainly, according to this picture, these big and wide and graceful cuffs lend a picturesque note to the coat of cloth. This model is made of an exquisitely fine beige woolen. The attached strapings of self-colored velvet attest to the popularity of velvet as a trimming for cloth. The tie-collar is also an outstanding style touch.

No Shortage of Liquor at Dinner to Prince

The dinner given to Prince Henry of Prussia on his visit to the United States early in the present century made one of Nero's festivals resemble a hobo's handout on a window sill. It was given at the Waldorf in New York. The wine service started with 150 bottles of amonillado sherry from Spain, worth $4 a bottle. Then followed a salvo from a battery of 350 bottles of Rhine wine and the same amount of sauternes, also valued at $4 a bottle. Then 750 slim decanters of Bordeaux red claret washed down the entire, assisted by a like number of Burgundy carafes. After the entire, 3,000 bottles of champagne thundered a greeting to the royal guest. About this time the conversation began to get thin, but the talk was thick. The champagne averaged $4 a quart. The famous Fine Champagne Cognac of the vintage of 1871 was served with coffee. This ancient nectar cost $20 a bottle. —George Hector, in Saturday Evening Post.

French Driven to Revolt

The French revolution was mainly the result of the oppression of the French people, who rose in revolt against the extravagance and tyranny of the kings and nobles. In addition they had no adequate representation in the legislature. The taxes were heavy and in 1777 there were as many as 1,250,000 beggars in France. Alarmed by the increasing signs of unrest in the country, the king and some of the nobles began to gather the army near Paris. This so enraged the people of Paris that they stormed the Bastille on July 14, 1789. This is regarded as the beginning of the revolution.

Rabbit Wastes as Fertilizer

Feet, Heads and Other Discarded Refuse Have Commercial Value.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The left hind foot of a rabbit may or may not bring its possessor good luck. A sufficient number of rabbits' feet, however, together with their heads and the other refuse discarded when they are prepared for market, have a real commercial value. Raising rabbits for both meat and fur is a rapidly growing industry in this country, and the question of the most profitable disposition of the wastes is one of sufficient importance to challenge the attention of scientists.

Discarded Material Recoverable. As in the case of packing-house wastes, part of the discarded material is recoverable as grease, part as dried blood, and the greater part as tankage or ammoniate fertilizer. Accordingly the bureau of soils has co-operated with the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture in an analysis of rabbit offal with a view to estimating its probable value if converted into these products.

Basic of Comparison. Taking as a basis of comparison the fact that about 15,000 rabbits a week are slaughtered for meat in the neighborhood of Los Angeles, Calif., it has been found that products having an estimated commercial value of $30 daily should be obtainable from the offal of these rabbits. Incineration of these wastes would yield less than 150 pounds of ashes daily, containing bone phosphate of lime and possibly a little potash, worth less than $1 as fertilizer. While at the present time various practical problems present themselves to those who might consider establishing plants for reducing rabbit wastes, it may be possible for those persons to negotiate with firms already engaged in rendering meat scraps.

Mixing Acid Phosphate With Barnyard Manure

Fertilizer plots established 45 years ago at the Pennsylvania experiment station have yielded some very interesting information. According to Professor Gardner, manure applied at the rate of six tons per acre to these plots made it worth $3.55 per ton, but when used at the rate of ten tons it was worth only $2.72 per ton. The results of his experiment show that the most profitable use of manure is to spread it at the rate of five or six tons per acre rather than ten or twelve tons, which is commonly practiced.

These experiments also show that when manure was supplemented with acid phosphate, the increased crops produced yielded a substantial profit over the cost of the acid phosphate. It is profitable to mix barnyard manure with some form of phosphate fertilizer, especially on soils which have been growing crops for many years as they are likely to be deficient in phosphorus. Even the dairy farmer is finding it to his advantage to supplement manure with various fertilizers. The lowlands are quite likely to be lacking in potash and unless there is an unlimited supply of horse manure, some form of potash fertilizer can be used with profit on such soil.

Save Some of Choicest

Leafy Hay for Chickens

In making plans for the poultry flock this winter save some of the choicest green leafy hay for the hens. This leafy material gives them to a certain extent a substitute for green grass at a time when everything is covered with snow. An easy way to feed it is to have a rack along the side of the wall and keep hay in this all the time much in the same manner as when feeding hay to other live stock. If the hay is put on the floor under their feet it becomes matted and holds moisture, and they do not get the maximum benefit from it. Alfalfa or clover leaves are about the finest thing you can have to stimulate egg laying during the winter.

Steel Dividend Stirs Wall Street

New York, Dec. 17 (A).—Wall Street experienced a "roaring bull market" today as a result of the unexpected cutting of a $200,000,000 "melon" by the directors of the United States Steel corporation at their meeting late yesterday. The first sale of U. S. Steel common was a block of 40,000 shares at the specified price of 153 1/2 to 160, a record high price for all time, this individual transaction involving more than $3,000,000. Other industrial and railroad stocks changed hands in large blocks, with initial gains running from 1 to 4 points in scores of issues.

Frenzied trading characterized the opening of the market, the floor of the exchange presenting a scene of wild confusion as brokers struggled to execute the orders which had poured into the market overnight from sections of the world. Post Number 2, where transactions in Steel common took place, was surrounded by a tightly packed mob of brokers as the opening gong sounded. The ringing of the gong was drowned by the shouts and shrieks of brokers. It was nearly ten minutes before a committee of the exchange could decide upon a fair opening price for steel.

"Forbidden Island"

The island of Fernando, Noronha, in the South Atlantic ocean, off the coast of Brazil, in latitude 3 degrees 50 minutes south and longitude 32 degrees 25 minutes west is known as the Forbidden Island. No women are allowed on this island and no one is permitted to own a boat. All intercourse with shipping is strictly regulated. The island belongs to Brazil, and is a place of exile and imprisonment for male convicts.

Old Economic Theory

The labor theory of value, as expounded chiefly by Adam Smith, David Ricardo and Karl Marx, is the economic theory that the value of a commodity depends, in the long run, on the amount of labor expended in its production. "It is natural," says Adam Smith, "that what is usually the produce of two days' labor or two hours' labor should be worth double what is usually the produce of one day's or one hour's labor."

The Bright Side

The seventh girl baby had recently arrived in the family, much to the disappointment of the parents, who were anxious for a son.

One day the parents were lamenting the fact that the new baby was not a boy. The little six-year-old daughter, who was present and heard the conversation, said: "Now, mamma, I would not worry as the baby may turn out to be a boy yet."

PARIS FEATURES FABRIC CONTRAST IN YOUTHFUL SHORT-JACKET SUIT

PARIS has become interested in suits of the youthful short-jacket type. Many are the fascinating interpretations which this newest mode promises. The fact that the short-jacketed costumes feature fabric contrasts adds to their novelty. Velvet or velveteen for the jacket, with kasha cloth, crepe or some other wool material for the skirt outlines one of the various developments of this recent style innovation.

Very swaggy types are of fine wool repp or mixtures for the entire suit, collared, cuffed and pocketed with spotted calfskin or some other equally as fashionable smooth fur. Sometimes the entire costume is made of the smooth pelt, the cloth of the skirt being inset in the collar and cuffs.

Of tuxedo inspiration is the modish short-jacket suit in this picture. Beige kasha is employed for the skirt with crackle blue velvet for the nifty coat. A pleasing costume emanating from a leading Parisian atelier consists of a short Norfolk jacket of beige velveteen worn over a like-colored crepe printed in tiny plaids. To top this outfit is a hat of stiff beige velveteen.

Very striking is an ensemble of skirt of which is black velvet. On this is posed a short jacket of black and white-spotted calfskin. Cleverness is the word for this combination.

And then there is the sleek jacket! French women are wearing them over dresses of matching crepe or suede cloth. Beige is a favor color. It is said that the sleek jacket will play a very important part in spring styling.

Ormiston Fails To Surrender

Chicago, Dec. 17 (AP).—The surrender of Kenneth G. Ormiston, a man of the Albee Temple Mason case, failed to materialize at the appointed hour.

Ormiston, according to representatives of the newspaper which found him a week ago in Harrisburg, Pa., was delayed by absence from the city, a bad cold and by a severe snowstorm.

Ormiston is to appear between 2 and 4 o'clock this afternoon. Chief Police Collins was informed.

New Farm Relief Bill Introduced

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP).—A companion measure to Senator McNary's new farm relief bill was introduced in the House today by Representative Palmer, a South Carolina Democrat.

The development grew out of an effort to associate the west and the south in support of a farm relief plan, and settled a week of discussion over the naming of the legislative newcomer. It will be the McNary-Palmer bill, succeeding as a center of farm relief debate the McNary-Haugen bill of last session.

LIVE STOCK

BEEF CATTLE ON AVERAGE FARMS

Permanent and profitable systems of farming include live stock. It is pointed out by R. H. Wilcox of the farm organization and management department, college of agriculture, University of Illinois. Beef cattle, especially, make economical use of the feeds and other available production factors found on most farms. About 80 per cent of the cost of fattening cattle is made up of the farm-grown feeds that are normally produced in a well-balanced rotation of crops.

There need, therefore, be but little direct cash outlay in fattening cattle, other than the purchase price of the cattle. The crops of a good rotation furnish a well-balanced ration for fattening cattle. Corn and plenty of clover or alfalfa hay form the basis for every well-balanced cattle feeding ration. These crops, upon the average, are fed to cattle at a profit.

The winter-fed steer is not usually thought of as a farm scavenger, yet in a large degree that is what he is, after his appetite for corn has been satisfied. For, in addition to making a market of this corn, the steer also makes use of the farm roughages, the idle time of men and horses during the winter and makes profitable use of much farm equipment that otherwise would stand idle.

A rotation of corn, oats and clover with a yield of 30 bushels of corn, 45 bushels of oats and two tons of clover hay to the acre will yield approximately three-fourths of a ton of grain and a ton and a half of roughage each year. There isn't much of a market for rough feed other than hay, and in the long run it is more profitable to feed all of these roughages on the farm.

Beef cattle on winter feed in Illinois normally eat three pounds of roughage to every two pounds of grain. This is almost in the proportion that roughage and grain is produced in a well-balanced rotation. To a very large extent, the sale price of rough feed depends upon what they will bring by being fed to cattle.

By their natural ability to convert farm roughages, including legume hays, into food for human consumption, cattle are a great help in making it profitable to include the clovers in the cropping system. Under market prices of finished cattle the first of the year, a well-fed 1,200-pound steer, bought last September, fed out on corn and clover hay would return about $24 to his feeder per ton for clover hay after paying 70 cents for corn.

A carload of steers will take about 250 hours of man labor and 150 hours of horse labor in care and feeding. Probably much of this labor, where cattle are fed would have been wasted if no cattle were about, for upon many farms there is enough family labor to take care of the cattle. By feeding cattle, much of this otherwise idle labor is made productive.

Do Not Overfeed Stock Just Before Shipping

The weight of animals over the stockyard scales count more than their weight at home. Heavy weight at home often means a disappointing weight at the market because of excessive shrinkage.

Live stock does not ride well stuffed. A scrawny animal does not have a normal appetite, so a light market "fill" is taken when they are fed on arrival at the yards. The market weight both surprise and disappoints. Hogs should be given a 75 per cent normal feed previous to shipping in cool weather. In hot weather the amount should be cut to 25 per cent. Provide clean water as frequently as possible.

Give cattle or sheep all the non-leguminous roughage they want. If they have been accustomed to leguminous hay mix the last feeding half and half with timothy, to prevent bloating. Be sure of your feed just before shipping from home. You will have more feed left in the bin and more weight of live stock over the stockyard scales.

Selecting Stock Ram

The man who really is interested in developing a better flock of sheep will begin early to look around for the selection of his stock ram. He should carefully consider the defects in his own flock and attempt to fill the gaps to secure a sire that will counteract such undesirable features as he finds there. There is a tendency on the part of many sheep men of becoming prejudiced toward some animal quality which they desire to emphasize and losing some of the more essential traits.

Keep Away From Cholera

The virus that causes hog cholera is so persistent that it may be carried from farm to farm by dogs, on the shoes of men and women, and on movable objects such as farm implements. It is important, therefore, that visits be limited to farms where diseased hogs are to be found and that hogs be given the anti-hog cholera serum. Advice received at University farm, St. Paul, Minn., show that the disease is causing losses in many counties.

Depleted Soils Being Rebuilt

Worn-Out Land in Pennsylvania Brought to High State of Fertility

That it is possible and profitable to rebuild worn-out farm land without the use of live-stock manure has been indicated in a number of field tests, but it remained for the Pennsylvania State college to fully demonstrate the plan on a practical-sized farm. The net result of this work to date is that a badly depleted tract of land has very quickly been brought into a high state of fertility, as shown by wheat yields of 25 to 26 tons per acre.

The plan followed on this farm is based on the results obtained on the old fertilizer plots, the oldest in America, which are now in their forty-fifth year. It consists, briefly, in a corn, wheat, clover and timothy rotation; second crop of clover and timothy plowed under; commercial fertilizers applied for corn and wheat; lime used as needed to secure stands of clover.

The demonstration was started 14 years ago in order to give definite answer to the question, Can worn-out soil be built up without manure? The first wheat crop after the inauguration of the plan made 17 bushels, or just the state average for Pennsylvania at that time. The clover and timothy crop seeded in the wheat made a 2 1/2-ton crop, which was plowed under. The second crop of wheat made 43 bushels and the 1925 crop, since the first one after starting the fertilization, has yielded less than 25 bushels, clover and timothy, regularly making 2 to 2 1/2-ton yields.

The farm superintendent, Mr. C. L. Gooding, who has charge of this farm, believes that it demonstrates the only way in which thousands of depleted fields can ever be made profitably productive in localities where live-stock manure is scarce and its cost prohibitive for general farm crops.

The root systems of the clover and timothy furnish a lot of decaying organic matter," he says in answering the question how he keeps up the humus of the soil. "And, anyhow, I'm not farming for humus—it's yields I want."

This experience does not lessen in any way the importance of live-stock manure where available, but it does show conclusively that run-down or worn-out farm land need not be left so because of scarcity of entire lack of live-stock manure. Lime and fertilizer enough to start clover for a green manure crop and additional plant food as needed for the grain crops will work wonders in rebuilding the worn-out soils which may be found in almost every community. Professor Gooding points out to the hundreds of people who inspect this unusual demonstration farm each year.

Confined Fowls Usually Heaviest Winter Layers

Pullets that are allowed the run on the farm during the fall and winter do not usually lay as heavily as those that are confined. If the birds are allowed to run it is impossible to control their feeding and often they are out roaming when they should be eating mash or other feed. In addition, they are exposed to changes in weather conditions, and wet, cold weather is apt to result in colds that may cause loss from death, as well as loss on account of poor laying.

Early-hatched pullets that lose in weight often go into a molt. The prevention of such a condition requires close watch of the birds. If they lose flesh they must be given more feed.

Cows on Cornstalks

The old custom of turning cows on cornstalks is a very questionable practice. In the great majority of cases animals are left on the stalks until they lose what little value they have received from the early grain and forage feeding. Corn fodder which has been frozen while still green, rapidly loses its nutritive through oxidation and weathering. For this reason there is little nutrition in the average stalk field; and after the animals have gleaned the few ears and nibbled left by the hounds, there is little of worth in the stalks and leaves.

Farm Hints

Farm machinery catalogues have a place in the farmer's library.

The best way to economize in man and horse labor is to keep them busy.

Partners need more of the cheerful, helpful, which does more, for mutual benefit.

Keeping the fences strong helps also to keep the friendship of neighbors strong.

Good clover grows best when the plants are well leaved. This fact is determined by examining the roots.

A grade ration consisting of corn 4 parts, bran 3 parts, and flaxseed oil-meal 1 part, is a splendid work horse ration.

Van Wagner Case Is Continued

The trial of the action brought by Nellie B. Van Wagner to recover damages from Carl Schenken for injuries sustained in September, 1924, when his automobile and the Schenken car, were in collision at Cold Brook was continued in supreme court this morning and was still unfinished when court recessed at noon until Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Carroll Appeal Up for Hearing

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Hearings of the appeal of Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, on his conviction for perjury in connection with his testimony during investigation of his "baiting party" began in the United States circuit court of appeals today.

He was arrested after news reports that he had been host at an entertainment in his theatre at which guests drank champagne from a bathtub in which Joyce Hawley, a showgirl, sat undraped.

Carroll was convicted in United States district court May 23, was fined $2,000 and sentenced to a year and a day in Atlanta penitentiary. Since his sentence he has been at liberty on bail.

Ned Green Trial Nearing Its End

San Francisco, Dec. 17 (AP).—The testimony of three women was used by the defense in the trial of Colonel Ned M. Green yesterday in the attempt to refute charges of the government that he embezzled confiscated liquor with which to stage riotous parties.

A further feature of the defense's case was the testimony of Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, distinguished enemy of alcohol, who appeared as a character witness for the accused prohibition director. General Butler was on the stand but a moment. He testified that the accused man had an excellent reputation as to integrity, honesty and probity. He was not cross-examined.

The trial neared its end today. Defense attorneys announced they had but two more witnesses to present and the prosecution promised to use not more than an hour for rebuttal.

COLLIERIE WILL SHARE IN STEEL DIVIDEND

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—President Coolidge is one of the 90,000 owners of United States Steel who will benefit in the distribution of the 40 per cent stock dividend it was learned today.

The President is one of the smaller stockholders, with reported holdings of some fifty shares. A 50 share holder will receive twenty additional shares, which probably will give a profit of between $2,000 and $3,000.

NAPANOCH POST OFFICE WILL SOON BE MOVED

Napanoch has found that its present post office facilities are inadequate and some time before the first of the year the post office will move to the Mechanics' Building and be housed in the store formerly occupied by A. Whiteley.

Smith Matter Postponed.

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP).—The fight over admitting Frank L. Smith as a senator from Illinois was unexpectedly postponed today when Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, gave notice he would not call up his resolution barring the appointee "until Smith presents his credentials."

Decisive Battles

War college historians say that of the thousands of battles and engagements fought in the United States in five wars, only six were really decisive. Two were in the Revolutionary war, the surrender of the British at Saratoga, bringing about the decisive intervention of France in favor of the American colonies, and the surrender of the British army by Cornwallis at Yorktown, ending the war with England.

The historians skip the War of 1812, the Mexican war and the Indian wars, says Capper's Weekly, and find the next four battles resulting in far-reaching effect politically, were those of Gettysburg, Vicksburg, Chancellorsville and Chattanooga. The Vicksburg campaign, they say, was the most brilliant operation of the Union Army of the Tennessee.

The New Pupils

Whittier, Calif., was visited by Quakers, often called Friends, and there are a good many of that denomination left, other churches are not lacking, however, and one of these claims the following incident:

Sunday school had been in progress half an hour when a very small boy came in dragging behind him a slightly larger girl, red-faced and excited.

"Why, Gordon," asked his teacher, hurrying toward him, "don't the little girl want to come?"

"No, ma'am, she'd rather go to her own Sunday school; but you said each one of us was to bring a friend to day school, so this was the only one I could get."—Everybody's Magazine.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—The unexpected declaration of a 40 per cent stock dividend on the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation started a gigantic "bull" movement in today's market, which sent United States Steel common, Atchafson and a few other stocks to the highest prices in their history, and a number of others to the highest levels in a year, or longer. Trading was on an enormous scale, approximately $1,880,000 shares of all classes changing hands in the first three hours, about one-third of which were in steel common alone.

In addition to the steel dividend Wall Street was rejoicing at the increase in the annual dividend on Crucible from $5 to $6, the resumption of payments on United States Industrial Alcohol and Freeport Texas and another series of "Christmas" dividends by banks and industrial corporations. With the long awaited steel split-up provided for, traders began to turn their attention to other stocks, whose owners are likely to receive special distributions within the next few months.

Atchafson, which was the subject of widespread rumors concerning a possible 40 or 50 per cent stock dividend, crossed 164 for a gain of over five points. Allied Chemical, mentioned in connection with a possible four for one split-up, ran up almost as much. American Smelting, United States Cast Iron Pipe, Commercial Solvents B. International Harvester and other high priced issues all recorded substantial gains.

KUTTER RIER WILL NOT VINT COOLIDGE THIS YEAR

Hoboken, N. J., Dec. 17 (AP).—Because of the cold spell, Kutter Bier, brewer, doesn't feel equal to celebrating his 104th birthday anniversary by calling on President Coolidge, but his nine children and 42 grand children will give a party in his honor at his home tomorrow night.

Mr. Bier visited the president a few days ago and at that time Mr. Coolidge expressed the hope that his guest would return on each birthday.

Mr. Bier was born in Austria in 1820. He came to America in 1851.

Chicago, Dec. 17 (AP).—A sixty-page edition with picture and magazine sections several jumps ahead of metropolitan Sunday papers in certain features, was published today by the Maroon, student daily at the University of Chicago.

Among the contributors were a handful of notables whose simultaneous appearance in print would be a triumph for any newspaper, the list including Christopher Morley, novelist, Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house; Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, and President Max Mason, of the University.

Eddie Cantor, comedian, was another, and the 20-page magazine section was featured by Frank O'Hara's short story that won the O. Henry award for the year.

FIRE IN PILOT HOUSE OF TUG

A fire in the pilot house of the oil burning tug, Edwin Chilton, of the Marine Transit Corporation, brought out the Newburgh fire department Thursday morning. The tug pulled into the dock at Newburgh shortly after midnight. It was on its way to Kingston where it will be dry-docked for the winter at the Island Dock shipyard. The blaze was confined to the pilot house, which was the only part of the vessel damaged. On account of the cold weather the captain said two oil stoves had been placed on the tug. One was in the sleeping cabin and the other in the pilot house. It is thought the fire originated from the oil stove in the pilot house.

LITHUANIANS FEARED POLISH AGGRESSION

Berlin, Dec. 17 (AP).—Popular fear of Polish aggression against Lithuania is declared to have been the cause of the coup d'etat in Kovno, which has resulted in assumption of a dictatorship by former President Smutka, stated despatches received here today.

Fear of aggression on the part of Poland, the despatches say, has been at fever heat among the people since the minister of war, Marshal Pilsudski, is quoted as having said in a speech at Vilna that he wanted a "friendly approach" to Lithuania.

EARLY RETURNS FAVOR ELECTION OF LEWIS

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 17 (AP).—Early election returns indicate that John L. Lewis, president and others on the administration ticket of the United Mine Workers of America were re-elected with a sweeping majority at the international poll December 14, according to tabulators at national headquarters here.

Other incumbents are Phillip Murray, vice president, and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Neher Resigns.

Oswald C. Neher, of Port Ewen, who has been associated with the River Division of the Knickerbocker Ice Co. for a number of years, has resigned his position to take effect December 31, 1926.

Carl Schueneman Appointed.

Man Dies in Buffalo Blizzard

Buffalo, Dec. 17 (AP)—This city was struggling to emerge early today from a smothering blanket of snow cast over it by one of the most violent blizzards that has visited Western New York in recent years. The storm described as a freak, in that it was provoked by a southwest wind, left in its wake one dead and a property damage that will run into many thousands of dollars.

The dead man is Fred Miller, who succumbed to exhaustion and exposure after fighting his way through drifts.

The blizzard passed away with the same suddenness with which it began. An hour before it started the stars were out and the moon was beaming. When the snow stopped yesterday the sky was exceptionally clear. The average depth of the snow was 13 1/2 inches.

Organize Grange At Rosendale

An unusually interesting meeting of the Rosendale Grange, No. 1501, was held at All Saints' Parish Hall December 13th.

After the usual routine of business was finished a recess was declared and the officers for 1927 were installed by Deputy J. Wells Weaver and five lady assistants from Clintondale Grange. They were the Home Economics Committee, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Sutton, Mrs. Van Sticlen, Mrs. Harcourt and Miss Irene Sickler.

Of much interest to the Grange members was the presence of Master R. P. Harcourt of Clintondale Grange, Master R. K. Osterhout of Stone Ridge Grange and Mrs. Osterhout, whose assistance was greatly appreciated.

To the officers and members of the Rosendale Grange, the ritualistic work of the Clintondale team was very impressive and a vote of thanks and appreciation was given them and also Deputy Weaver.

Arrangements are under way to have them call again in the early part of January to assist in class initiation.

All those who desire to make application to this progressive local order should get in touch at once with any member or the secretary, Mrs. C. I. LeFevre, Jr. The initiation fees for men is $3 and for ladies $1. Monthly dues are small.

The officers installed with ceremonies are: Master, George W. Nichols; overseer, C. I. LeFevre, Jr.; lecturer, Henry Mollenhauer; steward, Enno Spindler; assistant steward, George Kennedy; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Charles Juengst; treasurer, Arthur Merrihew; Flora, Mrs. A. Merrihew; Pomona, Mrs. H. Mollenhauer; Ceres, Mrs. A. Schneider; chaplain, the Rev. Mr. Cameron; trustees, Fred Gresser; the Rev. Mr. Cameron, D. Mollenhauer.

Following the installation of the officers the Grange continued its business of the "Question Box," conducted by the lecturer. It brought forth many interesting comments and discussions. It was followed by a lively and thoroughly interesting affair.

Refreshments were served by the Merrihew and Mollenhauer families, which were of the best. Neither the members or the visitors seemed very anxious to leave. At the next meeting refreshments will be served by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Freer, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dietz, Mr. Nichols and Mrs. Fleming on December 27th.

Report was made that six members of the Rosendale Grange attended the Pomona at Lake Katrine and enjoyed the day and found the people congenial and interesting.

In consideration of the fact that the Rosendale Grange is less than three months old and has a charter list of 54 members and a steadily growing application for membership, within a year the Grange will be an organization worthy of high recognition.

Harry Freer presented the Grange with a hand made ballot box beautifully designed and a masterpiece of craft. It was deeply appreciated.

The several committees appointed were:

Home Economics Committee—Mrs. A. Merrihew, Mrs. Mollenhauer, Mrs. Jungst.

Insurance—Ransom Krom.

By-Laws—Harry Freer and Floyd Dietz.

Mrs. Fred Gresser, pianist.

Mrs. Juengst, publicity agent.

INVALIDS CARRIED TO CHURCH FOR SPECIAL SERVICES.

Mrs. E. H. Tindale of Pearl street, this city, is in receipt of a copy of The London Catholic Herald, in which there is an account of how invalids have been and are being carried to Mass in Holland and Germany. The article states that, "The kindly and picturesque public 'Mass for the Sick,' begun a year ago in Holland, the cradle of so many pious movements, has this year been taken up and is spreading in Germany. It is the purpose of the new custom to make it possible, once a year, for all the sick of a community to come to church. For a day—it is three days in some instances, where a Tridium is held—the church is converted into a hospital, the worshippers reclining in chairs, on stretchers or in beds. The sermon and music are especially chosen for the occasion; the Sacred Host is carried to each member of the strange congregation where he sits or lies. For many invalids it has been found that the public 'Mass for the Sick,' has meant the first opportunity to visit the church in many years. It arouses a joy which is indescribable and the keenness of which those in good health cannot begin to appreciate. It was at Bloemendaal, near Haarlem, Holland, that the first of these touching 'Masses' was celebrated last year. This year, Berlin, Hanover and Bielefeld, Germany, took up the custom and at the latter place the large parish church selected for the Mass was decorated profusely as it is on Corpus Christi day—A blind organist played a beautiful prelude and the Mass began with the Liturgical Benediction of the Sick—The scene was touching; tears were in the eyes of many of the invalids and others attending the Mass wept openly."

Little Now Remains of Old Oregon Trail

There still are traces of the old Oregon trail to be found in southwestern Wyoming, but as time goes on, these are gradually being obliterated. The original wagon road, over which the prairie schooners of a bygone generation rumbled westward to their dream of empire still can be traced; it runs for a distance of about one hundred miles across southwestern Wyoming, from the Big Sandy river at Pacific Springs, to Cokeville, on the Bear river, on the Idaho boundary.

The famous trail is now overgrown with sagebrush, so that, in places, the wagon ruts can be distinguished with difficulty. In many sections, the barbed wire fences of the ranchers cross the trail, and in the space that is left, only an occasional sheep rancher's wagon journeys. The new motor road known as the Old Oregon trail, while following the general direction of the original trail, between Granger and Cokeville, thence across Oregon to Portland, does not exactly coincide with the original wagon road.—Missouri Game and Fish News.

Made Railroad Record

A train called the Nancy Hanks was operated over the Central of Georgia between Atlanta and Savannah in 1903. It covered the distance of 204 miles in each direction in 6 hours and 45 minutes. It was because this running time was such a marked improvement over previous schedules between Atlanta and Savannah that the train was named after the record-breaking race horse, Nancy Hanks. Included in the scheduled running time was a stop of 15 minutes at Macon. The train's equipment consisted of a baggage car, two passenger coaches and a parlor car, the motive power being furnished by three large compound Baldwin engines.
